DENTZ CHOSEN WAR MINISTER IN CABINET

Headed French Forces During Syrian Campaign; Petain In Background.

U. S. ACTION WAITED

Terrorism, Sabotage Flare as Collaborationist Assumes Power Again.

BULLETIN

VICHY, Unoccupied France—(AP)—United States Ambassador Admiral William D. Leahy received instructions today to return to the United States for consultation with the government and is expected to leave within two or three weeks.

(By United Press)

VICHY, France — Pierre Laval presented to Marshal Henri Philippe Petain today a new cabinet list in which the minister of war was understood to be Gen. Henri Dentz, who fought a bitter campaign against Allied forces in Syria.

It was reported that Dentz was Laval's first choice for the war ministry but that the selection was not definite because General Bridoux also was considered for the post.

Laval, leader of French efforts toward closer collaboration with the Axis, prepared to assume full executive power, with personal control over foreign and interior ministries and propaganda.

(The German radio said that Laval would succeed Petain as president of the council of ministers and that Petain henceforth would be limited to duties as chief of state.)

(The British radio quoting a Free French news agency said that it appeared Admiral Francois Darlan, as head of the land and sea forces, would be directly responsible to Petain rather than to Laval, thus apparently leaving dis-

37-Member Council Set Up to Organize Civilian War Program In Richland County Townships and Villages

Rural Richland county was ready today to take its place in the expanding civilian defense program as county commissioners set up a 37-member rural defense council, representing virtually every walk of life, and approved the establishment of an air raid warning center for four counties at the Richland county jail.

Organized belatedly and at the insistence of the Ohio Defense council, the Richland county council will be headed by County Commissioner Ray Hout who was elected chairman by his fellow commissioners.

In approving the installation of an air raid alert telephone in the sheriff's headquarters at the jail, commissioners acted at the request of Philip Gibbs, communications co-ordinator for the Ohio Defense council.

Gibbs designated Mansfield as a subdistrict warning center for Richland, Ashland, Seneca, and Crawford counties in the event of an air raid. A telephone which was being installed today at the sheriff's headquarters will be kept open for alert messages from Sandusky, headquarters for the north-central Ohio district.

An alert message received here immediately will be relayed to Ashland, Bucyrus, and Tiffin to put them on their guard.

The council personnel as selected by the county commissioners must receive the approval of the Ohio Defense council and Gov. John W. Bricker before the appointees become the official rural defense body in the county. Names of the prospective members were sent today to the state council.

Membership of the council will represent the county's seven villages, 18 townships, schools, labor, transportation, public utilities, health and welfare departments, farm organizations, and the law enforcement agen-

STIMSON SAYS ARMY GETS SET FOR OFFENSIVE

War Secretary Reports Forces Are Nearly Ready; Praises Morale.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary Stimson said today that "so far as the army is concerned we are getting pretty near to the stage of being ready for an offensive, however difficult it may be."

In a review of American military progress since Pearl Harbor, given in general terms at his press conference, Stimson said:

"Things are beginning to move and to move in the right direction."

The secretary also said that General Douglas MacArthur was in complete charge of the "strategic direction" of the United Nations' war effort in the southwest Pacific but whether New Zealand was included in his command was a "military secret." He said a formal directive was signed April 3 with the Australians and Dutch which fixed the general's authorities, including "practical coordination" of the campaign in that area against the Japanese.

"I am now more than ever convinced that we are going to get on the offensive and to do so at the earliest practicable moment," he added.

He stressed, however, that preparations for offensive war-

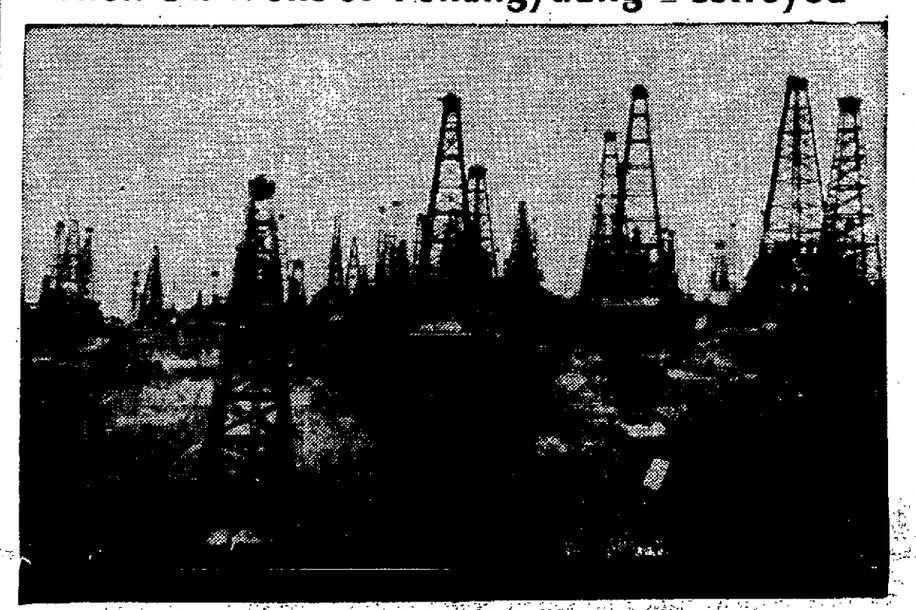
Rich Oil Wells of Yenangyuang Destroyed



British forces today had destroyed 6,000 of the 8,000 oil wells in the rich fields of Yenangyuang, Burma, in the face of a fierce Japanese drive up the Irrawaddy river. The remaining 2,000 wells were mined. Above is shown part of the oil field which was claimed to have sufficient capacity, before the British applied the scorched earth policy, to supply Japan's mechanized army on its drive to India.

HALF POUND OF SUGAR WEEKLY, RATION LIMIT

Eight Ounces Per Person To Be Limit For Individuals For First 8 Weeks.

Individuals of Mansfield, along with all their countrymen, today faced an allotment of half a pound of sugar a week for the first eight weeks of the sugar rationing program that starts May 4.

The Office of Price Administration announced that for the eight-week period sugar sales will be limited to eight ounces per week for each man, woman, and child. Each of the first four stamps in the ration books, which will be issued to each individual, will allow purchase of a pound of sugar, and will cover a two-week period. The amount may be changed after the eight-week period.

Distribution of the stamps—attached to the first war ration card—will be carried out May 4 to 7, with 1,250,000 elementary school teachers in the nation handling the huge task. Only two classes of persons are exempted from receiving books—members of the armed forces and those confined to public or private institutions which provide meals.

Laying down rules against hoarding of sugar, the OPA said that each household will be limited to a supply of two pounds per person. One stamp will be removed for each pound from two to six inclusive on a housewife's shelves, and if the family has a sugar supply of more than six pounds per

British Forced To Withdraw As Japs Press On

Attacking Furiously, Enemy Drives Up Irrawaddy River; 6,000 Oil Wells Destroyed, 2,000 Others Mined In Face of Foe's Advance.

(By United Press)

CHUNGKING, China—British forces have destroyed the rich Yenangyuang oil fields before the desperate Japanese drive up the Irrawaddy river on the west Burma front, a communique of the Burma command said today.

The British high command ordered the destruction of the last remaining source of oil in the entire Burma theater under its stern scorched earth policy after the Japanese had forced a further withdrawal of the exhausted British line north of Magwe.

Japanese forces were attacking furiously, the communique issued at New Delhi, revealed.

Led by the king's own Yorkshire Light Infantry, which for days had made a gallant fight along the Irrawaddy, the British forces had been holding their line at the Yenchaung river, only 14 miles south of the Minbu refineries at the entrance to the oil fields, when the Japanese started their new attack.

It was understood that 6,000 of the 8,000 wells had been destroyed or disabled, and that the other 2,000 had been mined and would be blown up if the Japanese advance continued.

The refineries which formerly handled the oil flow were destroyed in the Rangoon area before the British abandoned that city.

The British were still holding north of Magwe, but the Japanese were dangerously near Minbu and had already reached the west end of the west-east road extending across the mountains to Yamethin, on the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad which the Chinese are holding, and this brought a new threat to the Chinese rear.

However, the British forces at Taundwingyi, south of the central part of the road, were still holding and were in position to retire northward to defend it, if necessary.

The communique revealed that reinforced Allied airplanes, including British Blenheim bombers, had resumed vigorous activity and that within the last week they and the American Volunteer Group had destroyed at least 10 enemy planes and damaged two, in addition to bombing Japanese bases and conducting extensive reconnaissances.

On the eastern stretch of the 240-mile front the Chinese were holding north of Yani, 49 miles north of Toungoo.

Reports had reached here that the Japanese were preparing to throw up to 7½ divisions, or 150,000 men, into their drive in an attempt to win a knockout victory before the seasonal rains start in a few weeks.

LOSS: 65,000, Including 16 Generals, Missing on Bataan

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The war department announced today that more than 65,000 troops and civilians including 16 generals, had been unreported for more than a week on Bataan peninsula and were "presumably in the hands of the enemy."

This figure included approximately 35,000 combat troops, about 5,500 sick and wounded, a number of supply and other non-combatant troops and some 25,000 civilians, a communique reported.

No reports of casualties in the last five days of fighting have been received, the communique said, but it was believed likely that losses were heavy on both sides.

There were 68 army nurses on Bataan, and all of them were evacuated to Corregidor Island on April 9 along with a relatively small number of troops, the communique said.

American-Filipino troops were reported today to be fighting off an attack on Iloilo, Panay Island City and last important Philippines point still in American hands.

A war department communique late yesterday said Japanese troops landing from eight transports were engaged by American-Filipino forces defending Iloilo and Capiz, the main Panay cities. The Japanese were estimated to number about 8,000. They came ashore under cover of naval gunfire and air bombardment.

The war department communique gave no details of the fighting. It was not disclosed whether Panay was the site of the air base used by the American bombing force which attacked Japanese Manila installations in a flight from Australia.

The war department reported that Japanese air attacks on Corregidor were continuing. American guns shelled Japanese batteries on Bataan and Cavite, "resulting in a noticeable decrease in enemy artillery fire during the past thirty hours," the communique said.

Increased Bicycle Travel Places Police In a Dither

Pedestrians Complain of Sidewalk Riders, But Chief Has to Look After Auto Traffic Dangers, Too.

The rapid increase in the use of bicycles due to the rationing of automobile tires has given Mansfield police a new problem—the handling of bicycle traffic.

Police Chief Thomas M. Bell said today that he had received numerous complaints from residents that the increased use of the sidewalks by bike-riders was making it hazardous for pedestrians.

Chief Bell said that although there was a city ordinance prohibiting the use of sidewalks for bicycles that "it would be impractical to enforce it."

"If we make the children riding bicycles get off the sidewalks, they'll have to ride in the streets," said Chief Bell, "and that would expose them to the danger of being hit by autos."

He added further that in his opinion there is less peril to pedestrians from sidewalk bicycle riders than there is to cyclists when they ride in the street.

"It's a problem that we are going to have to work out very quickly," the chief said.

The rationing of tires and the arrival of spring put hundreds of bicycles on Mansfield streets and sidewalks. Children ride them to

WILL CONFER

Representatives of Allies To Attend Ottawa Meet.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King disclosed today a conference would be held in Ottawa early in May to which representatives of all United Nations with air training programs underway in this country or Canada, will be invited.

A joint statement by the two chiefs of government, released simultaneously here and in the Canadian capital, said that the purpose of the meeting "lies along the lines of further united military efforts . . . and would extend the air programs to take in the training of personnel to operate the military aircraft to the end that the most effective use will be made of all resources of personnel."

The statement noted that great progress already had been attained in pooling airplane production of the United Nations.

SOUNDS FINAL PLEA IN DRIVE

Medical Aid Chairman Says Hundreds of Items Still Needed in Campaign.

The last call for sheets, pillow cases, cotton blankets and thousands of other items still needed to equip Mansfield's five casualty stations for war time emergency purposes was sounded today by the Medical Division of Civilian Defense.

The supply collection closes Saturday and what is lacking in equipment thereafter will become the responsibility of the individual stations.

"It isn't necessary to give new sheets and pillow cases," Dr. Leopold Adams, Medical Division chairman, said today, in issuing the final appeal for supplies. "Just give the ones you have discarded," he added. "An old sheet with a hole or a rent in it is acceptable for surgical dressings providing it is freshly laundered."

Although the campaign for supplies has a substantial start, it by no means will be able to provide all the hundreds of necessary items

HOTTEST DAY

Thursday Reading 79 Degrees, Highest This Year.

It was still plenty warm, but the temperature settled back to somewhat more seasonal proportions today after hitting a new high mark for the year—79 degrees, yesterday afternoon.

The mercury stood at 66 at noon today, still way above the 17-year average of 47-1 degrees for this date.

Mansfield had .06 inch of precipitation this morning, the weatherman reported. The Ohio forecast was for cooler weather this afternoon and tonight, with scattered showers and local thunderstorms in some sections.

Yesterday's reading of 79 degrees was not an April record for Mansfield. Last year there were several occasions when the mercury rose above 80 degrees in April.

The company, engaged entirely in navy production, was awarded the coveted "E" for production excellence recently.

SHUTTLE: Bombers Fly Over Channel to Blast Nazi Targets

(By United Press)

LONDON—British bomber squadrons, protected by extraordinary "clouds" of fighter planes, shuttled back and forth across the English channel today, battering Nazi targets with bomb loads that shook the French coast for the sixth straight day.

German airplanes retaliated by bombing two southwest England coastal towns this afternoon.

The British formations—including some American Eagle pilots—appeared to be the largest numbers seen over the channel since the war began, indicating that the RAF steadily was stepping up its day and night aerial offensive. Many more than the 400 planes that attacked northern France objectives Thursday were reported in action.

(The German radio reported today that the Luftwaffe had bombed Southampton on the south coast of England last night after shooting down seven RAF planes in Thursday's fighting over France.)

The British bombers and fighters were attacking in steady relays and almost continuous explosions would be heard along the French coast, indicating that airdromes and industrial areas as well as coastal positions were attacked.

A United Press correspondent on the south east coast said that the area from Boulogne to Calais was attacked heavily by planes that roared over at 15,000 feet and then dived down into heavy anti-aircraft fire.

The formations later were seen returning over Folkestone at the

Bromfield Warns Small Farms Are Being Threatened

Asserting that Ohio farms passed their peak of prosperity 25 years ago, Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield predicted last night in a talk at the Richland county Sportsmen's dinner that there will be no small-scale farmers left in the state in 20 years unless farmers and sportsmen do something about saving the water supply and fertility of the soil.

Bromfield, an advocate of soil and water conservation, spoke on a program with two other leading Ohio conservationists in the Moose hall. About 350 sportsmen and farmers from Richland and adjoining counties attended the dinner meeting.

"We haven't taken care of the resources that God gave us, and if we don't do something about rebuilding them all we'll have left in a few years will be semi-hill billy farms and big farms of several thousand acres operated by industrial interests," Bromfield said.

Turning to the wildlife problem, he said: "There's no object in putting pheasants down on asphalt

FAVORS TAXES

Henderson Wants Heavier U.S. Levies to Check Inflation.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Price Administrator Leon Henderson indicated today that he favored heavier taxation than that provided in congress' pending $7,610,000,000 program, as one means of heading off inflation.

Other office of price administration officials have estimated that consumer buying power this year would exceed the value of goods available by $17,000,000,000. The pressure of this "inflationary gap" between purchasing power and consumer goods, they contend, could not be resisted by any price ceiling, however sweeping.

Henderson, in an interview, said: It has always been my idea that the way to plug the inflationary gap is through increased taxes and induced savings."

Hundreds In Service Camps to Receive Sunday's N-J, Mother's Day Gift Ideas

Plan Enables Them to Carry Out One of Most Cherished Traditions.

A Mansfield boy now in training at Camp Polk, La. . . .

A Bellville youth stationed in one of the Army's armored divisions at Fort Knox, Ky. . . .

A Lexington boy now in training for navy service at Newport, R. I.

These three are but a small portion of the hundreds of young men from north-central Ohio, at dozens of camps and bases, who will receive the Sunday April 19 issue of The News-Journal without charge as part of a plan arranged to make it posible for them to preserve one of the cherished traditions of the American family.

That tradition is the annual custom of a gift to Mother on Mother's Day. For many of the young men from this area now in service, the approaching Mothers' Day—May 10, will be the first they will have been away from home. But whether or not this is their first Mother's Day away from home, all of the area's sons will want to send a remembrance on that day to their own mothers.

Because it is more fitting that gifts on a very special day like Mother's Day should come from home town stores rather than shops far away, and because it will be much more convenient and economical for the young position of the French fleet in Petain's hands. Fears had been expressed in London that Laval would turn the fleet over to Germany).

LAVAL CHOOSES AIDS; DARLAN TO CONTROL FLEET

General Who Headed Syrian Campaign First Choice as War Minister.

Laval presented the names of his ministers to Petain at 1 p. m. (7 a. m. EWT) immediately after the ministry of Admiral Vice Premier Jean Francois Darlan had collectively resigned.

Darlan, resigning separately as vice premier, minister of national defense and secretary of state for foreign affairs, war and navy, at once assumed, on Petain's invitation, the new post of commander in chief of land, sea and air forces with the rank of admiral of the fleet, and the right to be on active duty for life.

Back in power after 16 months of political eclipse after his summary dismissal as vice premier in December 1940, Laval came to Vichy this morning from his nearby Chateldon chateau, under heavy guard to resume consultations.

Well informed quarters said that under the new regime Petain, retaining his rank of chief of state, would abandon the auxiliary title of premier and Laval would assume the new title of chief of the government, taking the portfolios of foreign affairs, interior and propaganda.

An unofficial and tentative list of the new regime is:

Chief of the government and minister for foreign affairs, interior and propaganda—Laval.

War—Gen. Henri Dentz, who commanded Vichy forces in Syria in resisting the British and Free French, or Gen. Bridoux.

Air—Gen. Jennequin.

Navy—Adm. Auphanz.

Finance—Pierre Cathala.

Labor—Jean La Gardelle, veteran syndicalist leader.

Communications — Deputy Albert Chichery.

Industrial Production — Leroy-Ladurie.

Justice — Joseph Barthelemy (retained).

French leaders and foreign diplomats awaited eagerly the first indication of a move by the United States to make clear its position.

(The Berlin radio asserted early today, in a broadcast recorded by the United Press in New York, that Admiral William D. Leahy, United States ambassador at Vichy, had been ordered to return to Washington to report.)

Since the start of the week-end crises which brought Laval back to power after 16 months of eclipse, Leahy had watched developments closely from his embassy, without visiting either Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, chief of state, or retiring Vice Premier Admiral Jean Francois Darlan.

The urgency of the foreign situation with the United States which was openly annoyed by Laval's restoration to power, was matched by the internal situation as the result of a new outbreak of terrorism and sabotage.

Today was the deadline for the arrest of "terrorists" who recently shot a German sentry in Paris. Already the Germans had shot five hostages in revenge, they threatened to seize and shoot more unless the attackers were arrested by today.

Forty-four persons died as the result of a sabotage derailment of a German troop train at Caen; in recent days civilians had taken a rifle from a German sentry at Lens, bombs had been thrown into German headquarters at Paris and Illers, near Bethune; 600 acres of the famous Fontainbleau forest near Paris had been burned.

As the council of ministers met here, the "war guilt" court met at Riom to suspend indefinitely its hearing of the government accusations against former French political and military leaders, so the scope of charges could be extended.

pavements or restocking streams with fish if we don't give them the environment they need to propagate and grow.

"There's no fun in hunting birds that have just been released and are helpless to protect themselves or catching fish that were placed in half-dry and polluted streams a week or two before they are taken," he continued.

Bromfield said his two "pet peeves" are the hunter who slaughters wildlife without regard to the supply or giving it a chance to defend itself and the farmer who ruins his own land and spoils the game possibilities on his neighbor's farm.

"Conservation is one problem that touches everybody," he added. "If you are a good conservationist, you're a good citizen."

The sportsman's biggest job in wartime is to prevent the ravaging of our outdoor resources from within "so we can leave to the next generation the same America for which we are now fighting," Richard Lindemann of Delphos, president of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, told the group.

He advocated that fishing and hunting be permitted to continue during the war to help relieve the tension of the people and build morale.

Lindemann said one of the major jobs of the League of Sportsmen during the next year will be to help place the quail on the gamebird list.

"The quail belongs there, most sportsmen believe," Lindemann said. "We won't say anything about shooting the bird until we see how the experiment works out."

Frank Zane McCullough, Piqua writer and sportsman, showed color movies of fishing in Quebec, hunting big game in the Lake of the Woods country, hunting pheasants in Ohio, and methods of educating youth to conserve wildlife.

Gordon H. Ensminger, president of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association, sponsor of the meeting, spoke briefly in behalf of the association. Attorney John L. Catlett presided. Preceding the meeting a fish dinner was served.

men in service, a plan to facilitate local buying of these gifts is being carried out through the cooperation of the Mansfield Retail Merchants' Association and The News-Journal.

It is pointed out that such elements as size and shade usually enter into the purchase of a gift, and it is often difficult for men in service to arrange such purchases, to have the presents gift-wrapped, and to have them sent home.

Announcement was made in Wednesday's News-Journal that a free copy of Sunday's edition would be sent to any men in service whose names were sent in by their families on the coupons published Wednesday and Thursday. The coupons also are being published today and tomorrow in connection with further advertisements on the subject.

In Sunday's edition, Mansfield member-stores of the Retail Merchants' association will publish advertisements featuring Mother's Day items. The offerings will be available, of course, to the general public, but the emphasis will be placed in the direction of boys in service who want to buy Mother something from back home. The stores are undertaking the responsibility for wrapping, delivery, and identification of the gifts the boys may purchase. Coupons will appear in Sunday's News-Journal to assist the boys in ordering.

All the serviceman need do is send in the order coupon, enclose a money order or check to cover the purchase, and send it in to the store from which he desired to buy the gift.

There is no obligation connected with this activity on the part of the boys or their families. The News-Journal will send the Sunday edition to anyone in the armed services whose name is sent in on the coupons published daily. Any orders the boys place will be on a purely voluntary basis.

The enthusiastic response to the first announcement—several hundred coupons were turned in at The News-Journal office Thursday—indicates that copies of the Sunday edition will be going virtually every place in this country where North-Central Ohio men are stationed. Many boys in service at various camps receive daily and Sunday copies of the paper by regular subscription.

London that 40 additional Japanese transport ships had arrived off Rangoon. It was believed Japan intended to use these reinforcements to drive as far north toward China and west toward India as possible before the rains start.

(Un fficial military observers in London regarded the Burma situation as desperate. They said the Japanese apparently hoped to cut all supply routes from India to China.)

U. S. Determined to Regain Position

LONDON—(INS)—The United States is "completely determined to reinstate her position in the Pacific" as soon as an all-out offensive can be organized, Richard G. Casey, British minister of state for the middle east, declared today.

Casey, who served as Australian minister to the United States prior to his recent appointment to the British war cabinet, called for close Anglo-American cooperation as "the only hope for the salvation of the world," saying that without such cooperation a successful solution for a postwar world was impossible.

He warned, however, that the United Nations must prepare for the possibility of simultaneous Japanese major offensives against India and Australia and declared:

"There has been too much under-estimation of Japanese strength."

Japs Again Bomb Australian Port

MELBOURNE — (UP) — Ten Japanese warplanes bombed Port Moresby for the 25th time today, killing one person and wounding two others, but causing no damage to military installations.

BOMBS SHAKE FRENCH COAST

British Planes Shuttle Over Channel to Attack Nazi Targets in Big Raids.

same time new British squadrons raced toward France.

Today's first daylight sweep of the French coast followed an apparent tapering of the extremely heavy raid bombers have visited upon Germany itself four nights of the past seven. Last night, according to a communique of the air ministry, the bombers attacked the submarine base at Lorient, on the French coast, and the docks at Le Havre. Fighter planes attacked enemy airdromes in Holland and northern France.

Though the communique made no mention of the bombers having visited Germany, the Berlin radio said that British planes had attacked western Germany during the night.

More than 400 planes—Hurricane fighters, Hurricane bombers and Bostons (Douglas bombers)—took part in yesterday's sweeps. It was the largest number of British planes ever admitted officially to have participated in an offensive.

Nazis Bomb Soviet Black Sea Ports

BERLIN—(By official German wireless)—(INS)—Nazi bombing planes scored direct hits of coal depots and warehouses of Soviet ports on the Black sea, causing huge fires, the German high command claimed today.

Industrial plants adjacent to the ports also were bombed, it was asserted.

"A powerful enemy attack on the central sector of the eastern (Russian) front was repulsed," the high command communique said.

It was asserted also that an enemy submarine had been sunk in the Mediterranean.

Russia Orders Total Mobilization

KUIBYSHEV, Rusia—(U.P.)—Total mobilization of Russia's 193,000,000 people against Germany's anticipated spring offensive was ordered today in official decrees mustering all manpower for industrial and farm production.

The decrees providing for a speed-up of agricultural production apply to all men and women and children as young as 12 years.

The decrees were issued as dispatches from the front told of heavy but unsuccessful German land and air attacks apparently designed to regain strong points and air superiority for a new offensive attempt.

Severe Soviet attacks were said to have cut into German lines on the central front and on the southern and the red air force broke up large-scale Luftwaffe attacks, it was reported.

Sincerely Yours Richman Brothers

TO AN EXTENT that is almost unique, Richman Brothers pursue a policy of sincerity in business that sometimes is mistaken as a lack of enterprise.

For example, it is not lack of aggressiveness that keeps us from holding continuous bargain sales, juggling prices, or constantly indulging in so-called high-pressure promotions.

Nor is it a lack of energy or alertness that prompts us to avoid exaggerated claims or fantastic comparative prices.

No, we recognize a responsibility to be just as sincere in our relations with our customers and employees as a man of honor is in his private life . . . and with great care, we strive to live up to that responsibility.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1942.

Speedometer dials on the older model cars still suggest speed possibilities of 120 miles an hour.

An optimist enjoys the approach of spring but a pessimist merely looks gloomily ahead to the hay fever season.

Word comes that one Washington agency is turning back some of the money allotted it, explaining that there was "no reason to spend it"—but since when has that been considered a good reason for not spending public money?

Life Pictures Mansfield Family

MANSFIELD again steps into the national limelight as "a typical American city"—this time as the home city of a family that qualifies as an example of quick adaptation to war conditions.

It is the Ralph Stanton family that was chosen—father, mother, three sons and a daughter—and it is Life, the widely distributed weekly magazine, that heralds by pictures and text, the day to day doings of the Stantons and tells of the changes necessitated by war restrictions and obligations.

The Stantons, it appears, do just about everything that could be expected of patriotic American citizens in time of war, and an interesting thought is that their experiences—with some variations, of course—are common to countless other homes all over the country. That's what a representative of Life magazine meant when she said, "You can find everything American here."

Less than a year ago Mansfield was chosen by Life for a pictured version of a "typical" high school commencement, and, whatever "typical" means, Mansfield seems to have it—good, bad and indifferent.

But, it is cheerfully noted, Mansfield's points of national interest are almost entirely on the creditable side and the civic garbage cans are kept pretty well away from public notice—which may also be "typical."

There is a danger, however, that in too frequently "pointing with pride" an impression may be gained by habitual "coasters" that Mansfield is just about "tops" and that there is no particular need for further effort. That's a danger which shouldn't be overlooked or minimized. Mansfield has progressed thus far as a result of the initiative, energy, determination and vision of forward-looking citizens and civic groups, and it can continue to go forward only to the extent that these forces are reflected in community life.

It may be hoped that whenever Mansfield attracts outside interest it will be through activities of which the city can feel justly proud, rather than the things that "must be kept out of sight."

They Show It Can Be Done

TWELVE THOUSAND LIVES could have been saved in 1941 had the nation's traffic death rate been as low as that of the three states which won top honors in the traffic safety contest conducted by the National Safety Council.

The three states—Oklahoma, New Jersey and Oregon—had a composite 1941 mileage death rate 30 per cent below the national average. If the national rate had been on that level, last year's traffic toll would have been 28,000 instead of 40,000.

The six cities which won highest honors in the 1941 contest had a composite traffic death rate 42 per cent below the national average for cities—a saving of 90 lives. These six cities cut their fatalities 31 per cent in 1941, as compared with a national increase of 5 per cent for all cities.

The six cities were Pittsburgh, Pa.; Memphis, Tenn.; Omaha, Neb.; Manchester, N. H.; Fond du Lac, Wis., and Aberdeen, S. D.

Winning cities and states are selected not only on their death rate reductions, but on the comprehensiveness, intensity and intelligent planning of their accident prevention program.

Legislative Experience Helps

SUCH an office as that of representative in the state legislature requires the experience of actual service in order to provide the background of knowledge needed to develop real capability as a legislator.

Ordinarily, except in cases of obvious incapacity, a county representative in the legislature is returned for a second term without serious opposition, in the belief that what he has learned during the first term will be helpful in his later service and that he will be better able to participate effectively in legislative proceedings than in his initiatory term.

This is the situation in Richland county as John L. Catlett announces candidacy for re-election after having served one term in the legislature. During his first term Mr. Catlett has shown an earnest interest in his work as representative and has evidenced a clear grasp of matters under consideration—always devoting much time to study of questions involved. He served on the judiciary, highways and health committees; was co-sponsor of several important bills and has left some matters of "unfinished business" to come up at the next session.

Thus far there has been no announcement of opposition to Mr. Catlett's re-election, and his unopposed election to a second term would appear fitting recognition of conscientious service and increasing ability.

More Versatility In This War

UNLIKE the requirements for service in the World war, in which fighting was confined to Europe, it is already being noted that the present army is being fitted for service anywhere in the world, able to fight in any kind of climate, at home on land or in the air or under the sea. Little is said about it in official places. But from casual information it seems likely that, while not yet so large as our army in the last war, it may be better prepared to do more different things effectively than any other army in history.

Young men from the United States are in service in Iceland, in Ireland, in Africa and in many places in the Far East, in temperatures ranging from extreme cold to intense heat, and they adapt themselves to their surroundings wherever they are sent. The variety of skills and equipment required in this war would have been unimaginable in any past conflict.

Fixed Ideas Delay War Output

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—The desire to make everything perfect—not to start until the last bug has been eliminated and every tool and every worker is just right—is causing more delay in our mounting war production than labor troubles, disinclination of capital to take risks, propaganda, and any four or five other factors you may choose to add.

That is the considered opinion of some very high officials in our war effort. The hardest thing in the world, apparently, is to get manufacturers accustomed to building for their own future goodwill, and thus straining every nerve to please the customer, to realize that a plane or tank or a gun is sometimes useful even if, so to speak, it does not keep up with the Joneses.

THE army and navy naturally are the worse sufferers from this. They always have been, in every emergency. It is partly their fault. But it becomes tragic when this inherent fault of the army and navy is multiplied by this desire for perfection on the part of manufacturers who ought to be rushing out war supplies, but are intent instead in getting a 100 per cent design, workshop and trained force FIRST.

In fairness this criticism does not now apply to the big producers who are turning out planes, tanks, guns and ammunition with a speed and efficiency, which has delighted the government. But it does apply with considerable emphasis to those manufacturers who have been persuaded by the government to switch from peace time to war production.

It should be stated that this criticism also should exempt the automobile industry, which has changed over with a speed that has surprised everyone, including the motor people.

However, it applies to far too many, and the government is trying various schemes to correct it. One of these is interesting because this desire for perfection has run into a machine-tool bottleneck.

EVERYONE knows that there is crying need for every possible machine tool. Who shall get them has to be decided for a long time now by the government. The manufacturer needing them most, from a war production standpoint, gets a priority order—or is supposed to get one.

So, Manufacturer A is asked to change over from his normal product and take up the manufacture of machine guns. Immediately he begins his plans, and pretty soon he notifies the proper authorities in Washington that he will require say 200 machine tools of varying descriptions.

Now the truth probably is that he could manufacture those machine guns with 75 new machine tools, using a larger number of machine tools already on hand for the other processes. He doesn't think so. He is perfectly honest in believing he needs the 200. The answer to this is that if he were doing this new job on a normal commercial basis, with a satisfied customer year after next the best possible asset, he WOULD spend HIS OWN MONEY to do it just that way.

But enough tools for all of his kind are not available, and will not be available, for the simple reason that if we had ten times as many as we have we would merely enlarge our demands. We want all we can get, of almost everything in the war supply line.

So the government is appointing committees of experts, in each locality, to visit such plants, and try to mark down the requirements of these manufacturers about to change over.

Man About Manhattan

What, No Piano!

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I first heard this story in Greenwich Village, where it is believed to be true—though anyone familiar with the fussy habits of artists would know it couldn't be true.

The story is that Alexander Brailowsky, the pianist, was to play a recital in a South American capital. He arrived after the audience was in its seats, and, as he advanced across the stage the audience gave him an enthusiastic welcome. Then he turned to sit down at the piano—and almost fainted. There wasn't any piano. The friendly Latins, in their zeal to make Brailowsky at home, had overlooked the matter of some thing for him to play.

THIS is an interesting little anecdote about an interesting personality, and there's only one thing wrong with it. It simply couldn't have happened. Brailowsky would chop off his big toe before he would enter upon a recital before every arrangement had been checked and double checked. The pianos he plays are fussed over, tuned, caressed, petted and cajoled. If he couldn't have got there in time to test it himself, his advance man or the local impresario would have done it for him as a matter of routine. Even then Brailowsky would have been a nervous wreck until he actually touched the piano himself.

Less than three weeks ago I saw a concert pianist in Carnegie Hall rise three different times and have the piano moved to various parts of the stage. Once it was too near the footlights. Again she didn't like the draft. A third time the lights weren't just right. To the critics these delays were irksome, and in their reviews next day they said so, but do you think the pianist cared? She would have walked out before concluding a performance under conditions that in her opinion, placed her at a disadvantage.

WHEN Horowitz, Toscanini's son-in-law, plays a concert, especially in a strange city, he checks the piano personally, and with infinite care. Sometimes he travels with his own piano. He will not play in a hall with faulty acoustics. Not only do many pianists take their own pianos with them, they travel around with little silent keyboards in taxicabs, on trains and ships. . . . This permits constant practice without annoying fellow travelers. Though there is no sound—only the silent black and whites, they know when they muff a note. They know when their technique is off, when the edge of their imagination is dull.

Jose Iturbi, who is a pilot and enthusiastic about piloting his own plane, flies to most of his concerts and therefore has to rely on the integrity of his advance agents and the concert maestros in the matter of good instruments. But you may be sure he gets there on time and examines the piano before he plays.

One piano was the skimpiest of fare for the late, great Paderewski, who liked plenty of insurance on his tours. When he toured he always traveled with three. His explanation: Atmospheric conditions sometimes affect the best of instruments.

Quisling In Retreat.

Probably the last has not yet been heard of the clash between the Norwegian clergy and Premier Vidkun Quisling. But the first round definitely goes to the ministers. They resigned en masse on Easter Sunday. Quisling gave them until 2 p. m. Saturday to withdraw their resignations. At noon on Saturday he backed down.

Despite the report that Berlin has ordered Quisling to drop his fight with the clergy, we doubt that the incident has been closed. What little prestige the traitor may still have has been deflated. He may make attempts at reprisals, striking at the ministers one by one or in small groups.

Nothing that he can do now, however, will offset the fact that he couldn't carry through his threats to the clergy as a whole. New courage has been given to the people of Norway and all other occupied countries who refuse to accept the rule of dictators as a permanent way of life. —Akron Beacon-Journal.

Believe McNutt Will Be Chosen To Head War Manpower Agency

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt has the inside track for head of the War Manpower agency that will shortly be established.

The tall, handsome Indianan is the choice of the four-member committee to whom the president turned over the job of picking a man and drafting the set-up of the agency. The four are Justice William O. Douglas, Judge Sam Rosenman of the New York supreme court, Budget Director Harold Smith, and Mrs. Anne Rosenberg, White House labor adviser.

Smith and Mrs. Rosenberg were the big McNutt rooters. Both have personal peeves against Sidney Hillman, who has been Roosevelt's labor chief since the days of the original national defense commission in 1940.

Smith is sore at Hillman because the latter slapped him down when Smith tried to sidetrack Hillman when OPM was set up. Mrs. Rosenberg is anti-Hillman because he didn't bring her into the defense picture.

Personally, Hillman is not a candidate for the Manpower post. It has not been revealed but he has twice offered his resignation to the president since OPM was disbanded. On both occasions Roosevelt warmly praised Hillman's work and loyalty and insisted that he had to remain in Washington.

Note: When the presidential committee asked War Production Chief Donald Nelson whom he favored for the Manpower job, he replied that he had no choice. His only recommendation was that the new agency be made a part of his organization.

Where Honor Is Due.

ALTHOUGH Gen. MacArthur's spectacular defense of the Bataan peninsula gathered all the headlines, praise and honor is also due other high-ranking officers who kept up the unspectacular but very necessary part of the defense.

In all 16 generals besides Lieut. Gen. Wainwright are now on Corregidor or were on Bataan peninsula, many of them completely unknown to the American public but genuine heroes just the same.

One unsung hero who has done a great job is Maj. Gen. George Moore, in command of the harbor defenses of Corregidor. Gen. Moore's anti-aircraft guns have bagged so many Japanese planes that the Japs don't relish flying over Corregidor any more.

Then there is Brig. Gen. Charles C. Drake, the quartermaster, who has the heart-breaking job of rationing supplies down to almost nothing.

Another man who performed military miracles is Brig. Gen. Albert M. Jones. He commanded the southern sector of Luzon, south of Manila, and accomplished the seemingly impossible job of withdrawing his beach defenses to join the forces of Gen. Wainwright on Bataan.

Then there is Gen. James R. N. Weaver, in command of tanks, together with Generals Joseph P. Vachom, William E. Brougher Bradford G. Chynoweth, William F. Sharp, Allan C. McBride, Clyde A. Selleck, Clinton A. Pierce, and Arnold J. Funk, all unsung heroes.

Note: Gen. Wainwright should not be criticized for commanding part of the battle of Bataan from Corregidor. Gen. MacArthur, according to those returning from the Philippines, also directed the Bataan battles from Corregidor.

Camera Shy.

IT IS a rare event when a congressman refuses to pose for a news picture, but one did the other day. Furthermore, the baiker was one of the most photogenic members of congress—tall, dark and handsome Representative George H. Mahon of Texas.

Chairman of the District of Columbia subcommittee of the appropriations committee, Mahon decided before beginning budget hearings to make an inspection of public institutions in the capital. Photographers descended on him while he was walking through the colored babies' ward at Gallinger hospital.

"How about a picture, congressman?" they chorused.

"Go ahead," said Mahon, striking a pose.

"Oh, no, not like that," said one of the cameramen. "We've got to get some local color into the picture. How about holding one of the babies?"

Mahon's face took on the hue of a ripe tomato. "Nothing doing," he gulped and dashed for the door. Later, relating the incident to friends, Mahon said, grinning, "Just imaging. This is an election year, and me a Texas Democrat. Those cameramen mustn't have any political sense."

Cookie Pushers.

IN CERTAIN official quarters there is strong skepticism regarding the state department's deal with Brazil for wild rubber. These authorities contend that the agreement actually will produce little rubber for the U. S.

This is due, it is held, to the failure of the state department to drive a realistic bargain on the question of Brazil's domestic consumption of rubber. Vice President Wallace's board of economic warfare and Nelson Rockefeller's Inter-American affairs urged that a specific quota be required of Brazil in order to ensure that Brazil's home consumption would not eat up the entire rubber output.

But the state department overruled this. Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles claimed that the agreement would produce between 60 and 70 thousand tons of rubber—more than Brazil's record production in 1912.

Brazil's normal domestic consumption is 20,000 tons, and rubber experts point out that the tire shortage in Brazil will tremendously stimulate tire manufacturing there, using up the increased rubber output. There is nothing in the new agreement to prevent this, and the state department took the position there must not be.

But the hard-boiled economists of the economic warfare board, disgusted with state department cookie-pushing, have enlisted the support of Vice President Wallace and have hopes through his influence to put a domestic consumption quota on Brazil.

Note: Meanwhile, Argentina is negotiating to buy rubber in competition with the U. S. from two other South American markets, Ecuador and Bolivia. Argentina has tire factories of her own, and is offering high prices.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Restrictions on consumer goods are coming so fast these days almost anything can happen here without greatly surprising most of us.

But let's suppose a citizen of the Coolidge era had awakened on a recent spring morning after doing a Rip Van Winkle for 15 years and had glimpsed one section of the front page of a newspaper before anyone could tell him what was going on in the U. S. A.

Side by side are three news articles which cause him to wonder whether he is having a nightmare or whether the good old land of profligate abundance he knew has gone completely wacky.

A HEADLINE with the familiar word "bootlegging" catches his eye. But to him the headline as a whole is utterly fantastic: "Wives Warned on Bootlegging Pants Cuffs for Husbands." He reads on: "The wife who sews cuffs onto her husband's trousers' legs may face federal prosecution, WPB warned yesterday."

Just beneath that story is another strange headline: U. S. Freezes Bicycle Stocks; Rationing Order." He reads the body of the story: "Faced with a terrific run on bicycles, the WPB halted the sale, shipment, delivery or transfer of all new adult models, effective at 11:59 o'clock last night."

To the man who has been doing a Rip Van Winkle since 1927, it just doesn't make sense. As he remembers, a bicycle so far as adults were concerned, was a fading relic on an early transportation period. Why, then, a stampede by grownups for this antiquated vehicle?

NEXT he sees this headline: "U. S. in Cheese Business; Seizes Syracuse Plant." Can it be that the land of Lincoln, of Harding and of Coolidge has gone Bolshevistic with an American Lenin, nicknamed WPB, issuing ukases to the Yankee proletariat?

He turns to an inside page and reads: "Army Streamlines Star-Spangled Banner So Males Can Hit 'Land of the Free!'"

And then his eye lights on this one: "Army Brass Hats Wrestle Over Undies for Women's Corps."

The Citizen of the Coolidge Era can't take any more. The paper drops from his hands. He eased down into his bed and whispers, "I'm doing another Rip Van Winkle and it's for the duration."

A Farmer's Diary

Against Plowing

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE FARMER had turned three hasty furrow slices with his highpowered tractor, when he saw me standing by his fence and stopped.

"Why plow?" I asked.

"Why PLOW?" He looked at me in scorn, bewilderment and pity. I saw those varying emotions chase across his intelligent, open face. Then he laughed.

"What a question! The plow's the oldest agricultural implement we've got. First it was a crooked stick, pulled by the wife and children, then by oxen. When metal was discovered and plows were made of tempered stuff, people got rich from the increased amount of crops they raised. Why the plow and the sickle are symbols of agricultural progress!"

I was impressed by his earnestness and conviction, but. "That doesn't answer my question," I rejoined.

"No"—and his eyes grew milder—"I guess not. Such an idea never occurred to me before. I can't imagine any farm without a plow. Don't turning over the soil make it new again, and destroy the weeds on the surface? Don't plowing give a greater reservoir for both air and water, so roots of young plants can spread farther? I heard somewhere though, that 'the merit of a democracy is that anyone can keep the right to think wrong.' Okay, I'll bite—why shouldn't a farmer plow? How else would he get his land ready to seed a crop?"

"My answer isn't original," I said. "I've been reading recent articles wherever I found them. In a western farm magazine I saw where farmers in the dust bowl had a tool for planting corn and leaving a sod on top to keep the dirt from blowing. Some of the arguments against the plow seem like sound reasoning.

"When land is plowed the share cuts millions of tiny roots that connect the topsoil with the subsoil. These furnish direct lines of communication for air and water and more organic matter. When a sod is turned flatly down or partially so, it shuts off the flow of moisture, like a layer of straw would do, and it will be quite awhile before nature can reestablish lines of moisture and aeration.

"Plowing leaves so many large open spaces that circulating air dries out the newly turned soil too thoroughly and retards germination or growth of fresh formed roots. You know how, in planting trees, the soil must be tamped down about the roots or they will not grow.

"But how, then . . . ?"

"Perhaps the disk, or a similar tool that would stir the upper surface only and leave the lower portion intact. It would make a solider, more acceptable seed bed, at least for some uses, I believe."

"Maybe you're right—it's an idea, anyhow. Thanks. Stop again, I'm interested." Then he quickly tripped the gang and I watched three fourteen-inch plows tear up the soil nine inches deep.

CHAPTER XXV

"It hit him and pushed him under them cars Bill Hockinson's been shunting around."

"Run right over him, eh?"

"No. It was just lucky Bill saw what happened. He was going slow. It just caught Drake as he came to a stop. Mashed him. Otherwise it would have cut him right in two."

"My God, that's awful!"

Dr. Gordon looked up from the table where Drake lay in the freight office.

"I'll have to have some help."

"What you going to do, Doc?"

Dr. Gordon didn't answer. "Someone — you, Davis, get me some blankets and a half-dozen sheets — anywhere here in the neighborhood and be quick."

"I'll help, Doc. Tell me what you want." Sam Winters stepped into the cone of light that fell from the tin-shaded lamp hanging over the table.

"All right, Sam. I'll need somebody steady. Everybody else get out now. Quick."

"What you want me to do first?" Sam took off his coat and turned up his sleeves.

"Cut these clothes off of him."

Dr. Gordon turned toward the door. "Will somebody stand at this door and keep everybody out?"

"I'll do that sir." Monaghan moved toward the door. "I'll keep 'em out, and when you've finished we'll take him over to my house. Just a few steps."

"Good. Now, Sam, let me see." Dr. Gordon proceeded with his examination.

"What'll have to be done, Doc?"

"Amputation."

"His leg? Which one?"

"Both. Close to the hips. There's a chance."

For nearly three hours both men worked under the crude light of the oil lamps. Then Dr. Gordon folded the blankets about Drake and stepped to the door.

Dr. Gordon sat in his living room with a tray before him. He ate slowly, almost absently.

The door opened so slowly and so silently that he did not notice Louise's entrance.

"Father!" Louise spoke in a curious flat, colorless voice.

"What's the matter?"

"I—I heard about Drake McHugh."

"Um." The doctor turned his attention to his food.

"I stood it as long as I could, then I went down to the—railroad."

"You had no business there."

"You had just left. They had carried Drake away somewhere. A terrible old man was — was cleaning up the depot room where—"

"That will do, Louise. It was most unbecoming of you to go about parading your feelings—whatever they happen to be."

"Father!" Louise stared stony-faced at Dr. Gordon.

"What do you want to say, Louise?"

The girl shook now so violently she could scarcely stand.

"You monster!"

"Louise!"

"You fiend!"

Dr. Gordon arose, laid his napkin on the table, and with the utmost deliberation struck her. She staggered and slumped to the floor. Very slowly she laid hold of a chair and struggled to her feet.

"I'll let the world know what you are, if it's the only thing I ever do in this world. Tomorrow—tomorrow—I'll tell everyone. I know what you are. I know all about you—and your operations."

Dr. Gordon took her by both arms. "You are going to bed—at once."

"I will not—I—I'm going to tell—"

"Louise."

"I will tell. I will tell. I will tell—" Louise began a sort of singsong chant that rose suddenly to a shriek.

Dr. Gordon struck her again, a sharp, stinging slap that cut her screams short.

She shook her head slowly like a dazed animal. "I'll tell them—"

"Louise—this is enough of your willful tantrum now. If you persist, there is one thing I shall have to do—"

He waited. She stared at him, half listening, then suddenly alert.

"What?" she whispered.

"If you utter one more word of the kind of nonsense I've heard from you I shall—commit you to the insane asylum."

Louise backed away. "You wouldn't dare!"

"I have only to call Dr. Nolan on that telephone there in the hall, and have you in a cell—behind bars—in one hour. Now, can you get that through your head?"

"I'm not crazy, and you know it."

"I could think nothing else when you make these insane accusations."

Louise swallowed hard.

"I—I'll go," she said.

"That's better. And stay in your room until I say you can come out."

Louise nodded her head like a small child who only half understands what is being said. She backed toward the door.

For three days Randy scarcely slept. She felt that she dared not leave Drake. She knew that she had to be with him when he found out what had happened.

Her face was thin and white and harsh with the effort she made for control. She felt that she must not let herself go for an instant. She must not even look in the direction of any release of her own grief. She was fearful that she might never gain control of herself again.

Randy set her foot on the first step and paused. She stood for several minutes leaning her head against the door frame. It was then that the dreadful sound came from that upper room. Randy knew even in that terrifying instant that she would never forget the sound of Drake's voice. It was a hoarse scream—almost a yell in which there was horror, and pain, and something worse—sheer animal terror.

She tore up the narrow staircase and flung the door open.

"Drake!"

Drake's eyes were rolling and his face worked voilently as if the very bone structure had been shattered. Randy saw with a sick horror that his hands were groping frantically under the blankets.

She almost leapt across the room and seized his hands. "Drake! Drake!"

"Randy — where — where's the rest of me?" His voice rose to a sharp wail.

"Hush, Drake. I'm here with you. You'll get well, now."

He held hard to her shoulders. Little by little he quieted.

"It was that accident?"

"Yes, Drake. But don't try to talk about it yet. You'll get well now."

His grasp loosened. She looked fearfully at him. He was quieter now. Very slowly he turned his face to the wall.

Randy turned away from the window where she had been standing. The frost-rimmed squares of glass gave a distorted vision of the still cold day. She felt that her mind was like that wavy glass. She had no true pictures of anything.

Yes: Drake would live. It was just here that all of the savage questions arose against her—arose and stood like an impassable barrier across her way.

She went into the kitchen. Her father had come in and had taken off his shoes to warm his feet at the oven door.

"Going somewhere, Randy?"

"Yes, I've got to get out for a while."

"Is Drake asleep?"

"I don't know. The nurse is up there."

"How long is she going to stay?"

"Dr. Gordon said Drake wouldn't have to have her after next Monday."

"How's he going to make out then?"

The sound of her father's words cleared something in Randy's brain. Her face cleared, too. The quivering uncertainty disappeared. A simple resolution replaced it.

"What's the matter, Randy? Change your mind?"

"Yes. I don't need to go out now."

"What's that? What did you say?"

"I said I don't need to go now. I know now." She spoke the last phrase half to herself.

"What is it, daughter? What's on your mind?"

"I didn't know what to do. I know now what I'm going to do."

Mr. Monaghan kept his eyes down. He didn't want her to see how much he pitied her.

"Listen, honey. I want you to hear what I got to say."

"I'm listening. Go ahead."

Mr. Monaghan stood up. His gaunt, bony figure towered above her. His shaggy white hair almost touched the low kitchen ceiling.

"Randy, you want to keep Drake here, don't you?"

Randy lifted her hand to her throat and held it as though to stop whatever was struggling for utterance.

"That's what you want, ain't it, Randy?"

Very slowly her eyes filled with tears. Very slowly her hand relaxed. She did not make a sound but let herself sway and lean against her father's breast as he reached out and put his arms around her.

"Come on, now, and set down. How we going to fix it up, you reckon?"

She shook her head. She was not able to speak.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR TWO MAY WEDDINGS

Sigma Kappa Gamma Learns of Approaching Marriages at Meeting Held Thursday at Rowe Home.

WHEN Miss Ruby Rowe and Miss Helen Desterhaft entertained members of Sigma Kappa Gamma sorority at the former's home, 215 South Diamond street, last evening, plans for two weddings which will take place in the near future were announced. Scrolls tied with blue ribbon and concealed in the palms of white china hands revealed that Miss Ada Anita Stebelton will become the bride of Richard J. Hildreth on May 2. The china hands were on individual trays on which the lunch was served.

Miss Stebelton is the daughter of Mrs. Virginia Stebelton, 89 Home avenue, and the late Robert A. Stebelton. Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Hildreth, 228 Park avenue west, are parents of the prospective bridegroom. The marriage will be solemnized in the South Main Evangelical church at 1 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Richard James, friends of the couple, will be attendants. A linen shower will be given by Mrs. James for Miss Stebelton on April 22.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. John Wise announced that her daughter, Miss Rowe, will wed Peter R. Gabor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gabor, Reed road, on May 6. The couple will exchange vows in the parsonage of St. Peter's Catholic church.

During the sorority's business session a committee was appointed for the Mother's day tea which will be held from 3 to 5 p. m. on May 10 at the Colonial Guest house. Summer activities for the group also were discussed. The Misses Dorothy Kelly and Dorothy Blackstone were appointed as a committee to prepare monthly bulletins. The rummage sale which was scheduled to be held on April 18 has been postponed. A letter was written to the Misses Eva Schultz and Jeanne Scott who are now employed in Dayton.

The birthday of Mrs. Raymond Jurgens was honored with a large, beautifully decorated cake when luncheon was served. The sorority will meet on April 30 at the home of Miss Kelly 241 Rhein avenue. Mrs. Jurgens will be associate hostess.

Informative Talks Given For T-W Club

The home of Mrs. J. C. Stout, 345 North Townview circle, was the meeting place Wednesday of the Teachers' Wives club. Twenty-seven members responded to roll call with quotations from American poets. Assisting Mrs. Stout were Mrs. Edwin Cooper, Mrs. Glenn Robinson, Mrs. Fred Elder, Mrs. E. L. Heasley, Mrs. F. B. Million, and Mrs. Earl Wiener.

For the program, Mrs. A. L. Derr gave a paper on "American Music." She covered a period of 300 years and brought out the fact that American music will not speak for one people nor for one phase of the nation's temperaments. Rather, it speaks for America as a nation and for Americans as a people.

Mrs. Roy Spetka, Mrs. George Taylor, and Mrs. Harry Scoles discussed the "Effect of War on Children of Japan, America, and Germany." Mrs. Spetka reported from material gathered by two teachers who traveled in Japan in 1938-39. They said that they had found practically no illiteracy. Mrs. Scoles based her comments on Dr. Gregor Ziemer's book, "Education for Death." Mrs. Taylor stated that juvenile delinquency in larger cities is increasing and that organizations in Mansfield are planning a heavier program to take care of such an emergency.

NOSE PICKING
May be a Sign of
WORMS

Don't blame your child! It looks like just a nasty habit, but it may mean that ugly, crawling roundworms are starting trouble inside the child right now. Other warning signs are: "picky" appetite, fidgeting, uneasy stomach, itching seat.

Anybody, anywhere, can "catch" roundworms! If you even suspect your child has them, get Jayne's Vermifuge right away! It's America's leading proprietary worm medicine. Scientifically tested, and used by millions for over a century.

Jayne's expels stubborn worms, yet acts gently. If no worms are there, it is just a mild laxative. Demand Jayne's Vermifuge.

The following officers were elected: president, Mabel Holmes; vice president, Beatrice Boals; secretary, Jean Linn; treasurer, Ruth Wareham; news reporter, Wilma Dill; recreation leader, Norma Davidson.

The girls chose Mrs. C. Boals to be their adviser. The group decided to have five-cent dues and planned to have refreshments if the respective hostesses wish to serve them. Next meeting will be held at the Boals home at 7 p. m. on April 28.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

The sound of the revolver shots brought all of us to alert attention. Through the front window of our car I saw the giant figure of Branchman, the Warren storekeeper, dash out of his car and stand in a listening attitude, his face turned back toward the direction of the shots.

In our own big armored car, all heads turned at the shots as if they were controlled by a single mechanism. Then Gus, in the front seat and nearest the door, slid out, calling back directions as he went.

"Misses Graham, you and the others up front sit tight. Don't try to get out. We may have to start any second. Joe, you keep that motor ready to start. I'll go to the edge of this brush and see if I can see anything."

Goes to Investigate.

"Okay, big shot," Joe responded, but there was no malice in his voice, and I saw Gus' good-natured grin at him as he skirted around the front of the car. Next he dashed over to Branchman's side, evidently repeating the directions he had given Joe.

Professor Diswell tried to raise himself upon his elbow, but Charles put him gently back again.

"Please don't exert yourself," he said. "You can't see anything now, and Mrs. Graham and I will report faithfully anything we see or hear."

The old man's swollen lips suddenly held the caricature of a grin, and I remembered Jack once told me the old man sometimes exhibited a "gorgeous, if sardonic, sense of humor."

"Okay, big shot!" he muttered, but in so muted a fashion that I knew Joe on the front seat could not possibly hear the imitation.

"I don't care what you call me so long as you don't move," said Charles. "Ah, there they go again!"

His exclamation was punctuated by a second salvo of shots. Then, in the silence that ensued, Bill's comment to Joe was audible—and disquieting.

"Guess the cops have bit off more than they bargained for," he said.

Must Wait For Gus.

"Oh, I don't know," the driver returned. "Maybe it's the other fellows that have been doing too much biting."

"Well," Bill said resignedly, "we'll probably find out what it's all about when Gus comes back."

Now it was Joe's turn to act the role of a pessimist.

"If he doesn't take it into his fool head to dash back there and get himself plugged," he said, and I found myself wincing involuntarily at the grim conjecture.

I was to wonder more than once in the next few minutes whether or not the driver's conjecture was to be verified, but I found comfort in the belief that loyal Gus would not get out of my hearing.

There were no more revolver shots, but I, for one, found this silence more disturbing than the shots. But just as the strain seemed unbearable, Gus, with Jim Watson close behind him, came dashing through the underbrush and up to the rear of our car.

I turned the unlocking handle and Gus pulled the door open.

"Everything's okay, Missis Graham," he said enthusiastically. "Jim Watson, here, he'll tell you about it."

"They got every one of the babies," Watson said. "Two of 'em will have to go to the hospital, and one of the cops has a flesh wound in the arm, but nobody was killed. The captain, though, wants to know something from Professor Diswell before he leaves."

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, April 18.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

Startling, peculiar, perhaps bewildering turns of the wheel of fortune may be expected from the predominant planetary configurations. It is difficult to predict what may be the nature of certain revolutionary and far-reaching adventures, but which by and large should be favorable, stabilizing and sound even though spectacular or breathtaking. Many avenues of experience may be open, with some aspect of public affiliation or connection with political, diplomatic, fraternal or corporation bodies. Change may be sudden and surprising, and duties or obligations justly assumed may bring rich rewards. Romance is not lacking.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year of high adventure, with sudden and dramatic turns in the tides of destiny. There may be decisive and revolutionary changes, with travel, adventure, romance or some sort of novel or unique experience to intrigue and gratify. Public affairs, or political, diplomatic or government relations may beckon and the assumption of duties or obligations may reap permanent and very real rewards. A great book or play may be written under such creative urge.

A child born on this day should have much versatility and unique scope for its unusual creative talents. A life of dramatic interest, strange experiences, but withal built upon sound principles and profound judgment is predicted.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHERE IS YOUR POWER?

During the auction, you raised your partner's suit. After that your opponents made a No Trump bid and your partner doubled it. One of the opponents then took that out into a suit his side had bid previously, whereupon your partner passed. When your next turn comes, you must consider some positive action. Usually, if your high card strength is mainly in your partner's suit, bid it again, but if your strength is largely in the side, double.

	♠ A 6 5 3 ♥ J 7 6 ♦ 6 5 2 ♣ Q 7 4
♠ 7 4 ♥ Q 10 2 ♦ Q 9 7 ♣ K J 10 6 2	N W E S	♠ J 8 2 ♥ A 9 5 3 ♦ A J 10 4 ♣ A 9
	♠ K Q 10 9 ♥ K 9 4 ♦ K 8 3 ♣ 8 5 3

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 ♥
1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass	Pass
2 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl
Pass	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl

Clear-cut logic is involved in the meanings to be attached to the action taken by East, in first making the vulnerable overcall, then a double and finally a pass. Unless East was prepared to play defensively against either of the opponents' suits, diamonds and spades, he should not have doubled the No Trump bid. Hence he had pretty good defense against anything, in view of the fact that his partner was strong enough to give him a single raise in hearts.

Remember, however, that he does not know whether the raise by his partner was based on any honor strength in side suits. If the raise was almost entirely because of the trump holding, then the prospects for a profitable defeat of spades would be slight. But if fair strength was held in side suits, then there was a good chance to beat the contract decisively.

As a consequence of this reasoning, Mrs. William E. McKenney, wife of the executive secretary of the American Contract Bridge league, doubled, and the contract was set three tricks by good defense, producing a top score on this deal, which was in the Eastern championships.

Afraid Of the Neighbors

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We had been married two years and the baby was only a month old when my husband left me. That was almost five years ago and I haven't heard a word from him since, but I have heard from various sources that he is living with another woman.

I've met a very fine man since then, and he is very fond of my little girl, and wants to take us out for an occasional auto ride. But I'm so afraid the neighbors will talk about me that I never accept. Do you think it would be all right for me to go with him, although I haven't been divorced?

B. T.

I think you've done well to get along for five years without support from your husband, and I think the neighbors couldn't possibly find anything to gossip about in your case. Why shouldn't you and your little daughter enjoy an occasional outing? You don't owe a thing to a man who deserted you when you had a month-old baby.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm so fond of the boy I'm going with that sometimes I think it is real love. He is 21 and I am 20. The other day I had to work overtime and couldn't keep a date with him, so he asked me to quit my job. I can't do that though, because I have to support my mother and I don't know whether I could get another job soon.

Then, as luck would have it, the next week I wasn't at home when he came and now, of course, he's sort of peeved. I've heard from some of my friends that he thinks a great deal of me, and I know that he's the only one for me.

T.

Why not get a relative or good friend of yours to invite you and the young man to Sunday evening supper, which would "confirm" the date and prevent another of those disappointments? Sunday supper is easy to prepare; it is informal, inexpensive and cuts a lot of red tape in becoming better acquainted.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

That old budget of yours which you sent me when I was first married three years ago, I found very helpful, especially some of the low-cost dishes tried out by experts in the U. S. Department of Agriculture and printed in a leaflet put out by the Government Printing office.

iSnce then I've read in your column that this old budget is obsolete, due to increased cost of living, and that a new one was in course of preparation. When will it be ready?

Housewife.

The new budget is ready, just off the press a day or two ago. However, it will not be the aid and comfort the old budget was because family living has increased 18.8 per cent since the old bugdet was compiled. At the same time your Uncle Sam has done what he could in the way of cutting costs for housekeepers.

By sending to the Government Printing Office you will be able to get many of the old leaflets and a number of new ones. If you will send me a self-addressed and properly stamped envelope (three-cent stamp) I'll be glad to give you a steer in the right direction. Letters with insufficient postage cannot be answered.

WHAT CAN I DO?

A Secretary Looks at War

WRONG: Tree-climbing contributes to careless typing, wastes time and paper. Distracting, too, for an observing boss.

RIGHT: Career girl Grace Dostal sits correctly: Erect, arms and hands at same level, feet a bit apart on floor.

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of articles on how women in the home can help in this country's war effort.)

By MARGARET KERNODLE
Wide World Features Writer

The take-a-letter careerist can contribute to conservation and prevent war waste.

She can organize the office into wartime order like this:

First she will make her typing methods the most efficient by testing her technique if necessary according to the rules of an up-to-date textbook. And she will perfect her typing posture to prevent errors at the keyboard.

Don't Climb a Tree.

The correct position at the typewriter, according to New York secretaries, is to sit with feet slightly apart but flat on the floor, hands and arms at the same angle to the keyboard. Especially the typist should avoid tree-climbing positions.

An easy check for typing technique is to see if the little fingers find their way to the "A" and ";" steadily as guides. That saves erasers.

Next the typist will do daily cleaning duty to keep her typewriter in good condition. That means she will:

1. Wipe the rails on which the carriage runs with a clean, dry cloth.

2. Wipe the slots in the curved metal framework in which the type bars move.

3. Clean the type with stiff bristled brush.

Once a week she will oil the typewriter a little and clean the roller with a cloth moistened in denatured alcohol.

Paper Saver.

Also the secretary who makes herself a waste warden can be paper-saver No. 1 for her office. Instead of making carbon copies of a memo, she can make one and route it around the office. She can use the back of a letter for the first carbon of the answer unless space is insufficient. And she can have inter-office reports copied on both sides of the paper.

She will convert waste paper into scratch pads, even clean the files of outdated communications to increase her supply of second sheets.

GIVE PROGRAM

Club and Class at Appleseed Stage Special Assembly.

Pupils in the Pan-American club and ninth grade class of Johnny Appleseed Junior high school are sponsoring a special assembly program at 1:30 p. m. today in the auditorium.

The program, arranged by John Correll, faculty advisor of the Pan-American club, and John Thoms, ninth grade class advisor, will consist of a motion picture entitled "The Land of the Incas" and "surprise" amateur acts.

Appleseed pupils obtained tickets for the show by bringing in old papers and magazines. A pupil received his ticket when he brought in twice as many pounds of paper as the number of years in his life—two pounds of paper for each year. School Principal G. W. Harmony stated that more than one and a half tons of scrap paper has been collected.

Proceeds from the sale of the paper will be divided between the two groups and used to buy war savings stamps and bonds.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Under the Big Top.

(Notes Taken Backstage at the Circus.)

BROADWAY had a hand in the circus this season—the Broadway triumvirate of Norman Bel Geddes, George Balanchine and John Murray Anderson—but it is still more the circus than Broadway. It still has the peculiar monkeys-and-acrobats smell of the circus, it still (in spite of Stravinsky) sounds like the circus, brassy and fast and exciting; there are still motes of sawdust always rising in the spotlights. The elephants are still large, the midgets small and the young men on the flying trapezes very, very daring.

Kilgallen

Of course, you can never see all that goes on at a circus, and if you lived with a circus for years you could never know everything about it. While you are looking at a wirewalker you miss a wonderful face on a clown; while you are studying the lives of the bareback riders you miss a crisis among the freaks. You could write a book about almost anything in the circus.

Take the freaks, for instance.

Freaks look funny, but they are usually brighter than college girls. This was indicated last year when the freaks from the circus participated in a radio quiz show called the "Battle of the Sexes" and got a far higher I. Q. rating than the girls from a local college who had been on the program the week before.

Most freaks are authentic. It is true the Blue Men take mercury pills to make them bluer, but Olga the Bearded Woman was really a woman and really bearded.

The circus changes fat girls frequently, usually because the fat girl has gotten herself married or because she is thin compared to some new fat girl who has turned up. This year's Baby Betty is pounds and pounds fatter than last year's Alice from Dallas. (Dodgers' note: The Thin Man this season is from Brooklyn).

Most people think that sword swallowers don't really swallow the swords, and for years performers have been accused or suspected of using collapsible swords or doing the trick with mirrors. This is not true. Of course, they always swallow blunt ones, but you can hardly blame them for that.

This year the girl sword-swallower is swallowing a tube of neon light. The people know she is not a fake because they can see it light up.

This season's giant and giantess are an Austrian man and wife. The giant is over 8 feet tall, but it is said he is a shrimp compared to a giant in Finland, whom the circus has been trying to get over here for the past two years. The Finn is said to be close to 9 feet tall and still growing.

All giants wear high heels and lifts in their shoes to make them look taller.

The Ossified Man is just a fellow in the advanced stages of arthritis; it's as unmysterious as that. He can stick pins in himself because he's incapable of feeling pain.

Circus people say that the Ugliest Woman in the World, Mary Ann Bevan, was also one of the kindest; she was in love with the deaf keeper of the giraffes, and when he died she grieved for him as tenderly as if she had been Iseult and he Tristan.

Of course, there are freaks that are not quite what they are claimed to be. Eko and Iko, billed as "Ambassadors From Mars," were actually Albino Negroes who had been stolen from their Negro Mammy when they were infants. She caught up with them years later and took them back home—not to Mars, but to Roanoke, Va.

Nearly all the freaks are married and nearly all are thrifty. They are happy and like being wth the circus, because they fit into a circus; it is their logical background and the only place in the world where they feel quite comfortable and unextraordinary.

The greatest circus performer of all time was Lillian Leitzel, who threw herself over her own shoulder in what is known as a "giant plunge." Others have done the same thing, but never with her great style; she was to the circus what Pavlowa was to the dance.

Lillian was killed in Copenhagen on Friday the 13th of January, 1931, when one of the rings holding her equipment broke and she crashed to the ground. Everybody said that was the way Leitzel would have wished to die: spectacularly, with the spotlight on her and the crowd watching under the big top.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—It was just like the good old days. Movie days of dewy-eyed, dewy-lipped heroines who tripped through acres of daisies and swooned under bowers of peach blossoms. It was just corny.

The scene was the rustic, so very quaint living room of the old farmhouse. Lace curtains at the windows, the old family organ standing by, quaint ancestral portraits on the walls, framed cross-stitch mottoes, and huge vases and bowls of apple blossoms.

The action: the wedding breakfast of Barbara Stanwyck and George Brent — the latter's first movie scene since his marriage to Ann Sheridan, who on another stage was getting ready for love passages with Dennis Morgan. Miss Stanwyck, as one of "The Gay Sisters," was cutting her wedding cake, passing a slice to venerable Hobart Bosworth. "I feel faint," she said, registering I-feel-faint with broad emphasis.

She rose from the table, stumbled to the stairway, started up, and swooned backward — into Brent's waiting arms. It was corn, all right, straight out of the old silent movie bins. But—

The director of "The Gay Sisters," is Irving Rapper ("Shining Victory," "One Foot in Heaven"), who is no dealer in the tall Iowa staple. Rapper hurried over to explain. "It's done this way on purpose. This is how Barbara, seven years later, is telling it. She hooked Brent into marriage, for a day, just to collect on an inheritance that required her to be married by a certain time. Now she's tough, and ruthless, and this is her corny version of the wedding."

It's interesting to look back over the Stanwyck career. She started off as a glitter gal ("Ladies of Leisure") and then she landed at Warner's where somebody was so smitten by her earthy quality that for several years she did nothing but drab little souls finding joy in the simple things—"So Big," "The Mudlark," and such. There was a brief return to glitter, and then "Stella Dallas," flashy but essentially drab—and the closest Stanwyck ever came, incidentally, to a deserved Oscar. Last year was her comedy year, — "The Lady Eve," "You Belong to Me" and "Ball of Fire" over-shadowing the more serious "Meet John Doe."

500 Plants Use Labor-Management Plan

COMMITTEES SPEED UP WAR PLANT OUTPUT

Industries Following Program Suggested By WPB Chief In 32 States.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON —Headquarters of the war production drive today listed 500 plants in 32 states which have set up labor-management committees to speed the nation's output of ships, planes, tanks and guns.

Additional plants have organized committees, suggested by WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson more than a month ago as a spur to lagging production, but their reports have not yet been formally posted and processed, it was explained.

The 500th report was accepted from the labor-management committee of the Douglas Aircraft company, of California. In one of the firm's three plants, a total of 5,841 suggestions for increasing production have been received and 1,090 awards for meritorious work have been made.

As outlined by Nelson, the committees are designed to accept suggestions for boosting production; post scoreboards showing the plant's output and goals and single out production workers for awards for good service.

Pennsylvania reported the largest total to date, with committees functioning in 92 war plants in that state. New York reported 59, Ohio 54 and New Jersey 38.

The committees have expanded and augmented Nelson's original outline of their duties.

In the Crosley plant at Cincinnati, the committee presented a 30-minute recorded program explaining to workers the need for increased production. A father with a son on Bataan told the workers what increased output would mean to the nation's armed forces.

The Cleveland Tractor company committee, in addition to the usual committees on slogan contests, bulletin board and posters, named a "housekeeping" group to increase efficiency by making sure the plant is kept clean and a transportation committee to make a map locating employes' homes and arrange pools of automobiles.

WOULD MAKE UNIONS LIABLE TO PROSECUTION

Legislator Offers Bill To Prevent Forcing of 'Unnecessary Hiring.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A move to subject labor unions to prosecution under the anti-trust law and to prevent them from forcing employers to hire "unnecessary" workers was laid before congress today in the midst of a controversy over war profits and overtime pay.

The house judiciary committee opened hearings on the new proposal as Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) of the naval affairs committee called for a showdown on a measure setting a percentage limitation on profits, restricting union activities, and suspending the 40-hour week.

The measure to bring labor unions under jurisdiction of the anti-trust law was offered by Rep. Monroney (D.-Okla.). Unlike the profits-labor legislation pending before the naval committee, it was designed to extend beyond the war as a permanent legislation.

On the senate side, a subcommittee drafted legislation giving the government veto power over wage and salary increases and restricting the extension of closed shop agreements.

The measure, a modified version of a bill by Senator Ball (R.-Minn.) will be referred to the full labor committee on Monday and, if approved, placed immediately before the senate.

Chairman Thomas (D.-Utah) said committee members felt they should offer a "more constructive" bill than one by Senator Connally (D.-Tex.) which provides for government seizure of strike-bound plants and which also is due to come up Monday.

The revised Ball measure provides for settlement of labor disputes by the present conciliation service and war labor board plus a three-member arbitration commission to be appointed by the president.

It would authorize the commission to forbid any salary increases above $5,000 a year, a provision Subcommittee Chairman Hill (D.) said was designed to prevent corporations from holding down corporate income or excess profits taxes by boosting the salaries of top executives.

GETS $25 FINE

Mansfielder Found Guilty In Molesting Case.

Orville Corbin, 44, of 465 Springmill street, was fined $25 and costs today in municipal court upon arraignment on a charge of molesting a female. Corbin entered a plea of innocence.

The Springmill street man was arrested late Wednesday after a Geddes street housewife had identified him as the man who attempted to force her to get into his automobile at midnight Monday on North Mulberry street.

The housewife told police that Corbin had tried to get her to get into his car and threatened her with what she "thought was a gun." She said he fled when she "sicked" her dog on him.

Corbin upon arraignment yesterday claimed that the affidavit charging him was not worded properly and was granted a continuance of his case until this morning.

URGES STEP-UP IN PRODUCTION

Standard Oil Official Says 500,000 Tons of Synthetic Rubber Will Be Needed.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Synthetic rubber production must be stepped up to 500,000 tons next year if 28,000,000 American passenegr cars are to be kept on the road, the National Patroleum association was told today.

Dr. C. L. Burrill of New York, statistical director for the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, said 200,000 tons would be required for recapping or replacing tires on automobiles not now eligible for rubber.

This in in addition to the government's estimated 1934 output of 300,000 tons, all of which is expected to be used for war needs, he stated.

"The additional synthetic capacity is necessary to conduct the war properly, since the bulk of the transportation provided by these 28,000,000 passenger cars is essential to the war effort and cannot be replaced by other means of transportation," Dr. Burrill said in appraising the effect of the rubber shortage on motor fuel consumption.

It was estimated that if the 28,000,000 passenger cars could obtain no rubber by 1946, the total demand for gasiline would drop to 64 per cent of that for 1941. Demand this year will amount to about 94 per cent of that for last year if no rubber is available.

Motor fuel consumption will be affected further by the scrapping of old cars, but, said Dr. Burrill "scrapping of passenger cars will not have as much effect upon motor fuel demands during the next few years as will the shortage of rubber, and during the current year a shortage of transportation may make it necessary to restrict motor fuel consumption more than can be expected as a result of the rubber shortage alone."

LONG ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

William Elliott, 79, Succumbs; Funeral Saturday.

William Elliott, 79, former Shelby resident, died at the Richland county home yesterday following a lingering illness.

He was born in Saint Clairsville, O. Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Steven Nephew of Cleveland, Mrs. Charles Flemming of Newark, and Mrs. Joseph Farmer of Zanesville.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the Jones Memorial in charge of Rev. J. W. Gilkerson, pastor of the Glad Tidings tabernacle. Burial will be in St. Clairsville cemetery.

WINS PAROLE

McGugin, Sentenced From County For Arson, Gets Release.

John McGugin, who was admitted from Richland county on an arson charge, was one of 65 inmates of the London prison farm granted paroles by the state pardon and parole commission, it was announced today in Columbus.

Another is Edward James Hartman, who was admitted from Ashland county on a charge of forgery. Both paroles are effective June 1.

PRISONERS TRAIN IN HOPE OF CHANGING GREY FOR ARMY KHAKI

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—The men behind the big grey walls of Ohio penitentiary—those who are willing to "offset the botch they have made of their lives"—are falling into line in an effort to exchange prison grey for army khaki.

More than 250 prisoners, culled from the ranks of 1,500 inmate volunteers and organized into Ohio penitentiary's defense legion, completed their first week of a 13-week basic infantry training course last night as the penitentiary's program to supply men for the army was begun.

Warden Frank D. Henderson, a World war U. S army officer, devised the training program for prisoners "to give the men a chance to make the supreme sacrifice in the war effort as well as a chance to start their lives all over again."

"Although they are putting their personal savings into defense bonds and doing work for the Red Cross prior to the institution of this military course, the men are dissatisfied," Henderson said. "They wanted a chance to get into the actual fighting."

Under the present program first offenders, except those convicted of murder and sex crimes, are given a rigorous course in basic infantry training under the direction of retired army officers, officers and non-commissioned officers of the Ohio state guard and prison guards. On completion of the course the men eligible for army service are recommended for paroles and those ineligible are recommended for commuted sentences.

Only prisoners who can meet physical and moral requirements of the army are accepted for training.

Henderson said that men who complete the 13-week course and ultimately are paroled to the army will "more than likely" escape the regular rookie training. The prison course is comparable to the army's recruit training course and consumes eight hours of intensive training weekly, all done after regular prison work hours.

Training is carried out with dummy guns manufactured in the prison shops.

Gave Money to Aid Refugees, Galion Man Says.

Accused of obtaining $20,000 from relatives of refugees on promises to bring persons into this country through Mexico, Albert F. Coyle, 49, was held in $10,000 bail on a first degree grand larceny charge in New York today, according to wire dispatches from that city.

Alvin W. Kline, of Galion, was one of the accusers. He said he gave Coyle $3,334 in 1940 in an effort to get three friends from Czechoslovakia to Mexico.

Up and Down the Street

The eight Girl Scouts of Troop 8 are planning big things for this summer. They have had the use of a plot of ground near Alta donated to them for a Victory garden and they are now enmeshed in seed catalogs and all the other available hints-to-gardners that will be of help to them in their project. Tom Ford offered to donate the ground if the Scouts wanted to plant it. The offer was eagerly accepted and the girls are getting their bicycles in shape to make trips out to the garden at least twice a week.

Victory gardeners in Mansfield have called upon police to help them protect their agricultural efforts. Police Chief Thomas B. Bell said today that several gardeners had complained that chickens and dogs had done considerable damage to their gardens. County election board clerks at the courthouse were congratulating themselves today on getting their supplies for the 1942 elections early, but they found when they opened the shipment that their registration cards are on much cheaper quality paper than formerly. Ten thousand of the cards were ordered three months ago and just arrived today. The board feared that war priorities on paper supplies may make election cards and poll books difficult to get as the primary approaches.

Urge Registrants To Observe Draft Law Regulations

Selective service registrants, including more than 15,000 in Richland county were urged today by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to comply fully with all provisions of the draft law to avoid citation by federal officers.

Draft boards may call on the FBI at any time to take a violator into federal court where conviction usually brings long prison sentences.

Hoover listed seven precautions which must be observed by registrants. They are:

Always keep your registration card with you.

When you receive your questionnaire, answer and return it promptly.

Report for examination and induction when so ordered.

Keep your local board informed at all times of your correct address

Report immediately any change in your family status or occupation which might have a bearing on your classification.

Do not attempt to evade any provisions of the selective service act or the official instructions of your board.

Do not aid or attempt to persuade any one to avoid compliance with the selective service act.

TELLS STORY OF WAR AT SEA IN LIBRARY VOLUME

Gilbert Cant's Book Built on Official Communiques and Observers' Reports.

The first comprehensive and factual account of the naval engagements and exploits in the present World war are set down by Gilbert Cant in his new book, "The War at Sea," now available at the Mansfield Public library.

Official reports hitherto unavailable as well as the communiques and narratives of observers and participants were pieced together by the author for his book including a description of the explosive outbreak of the war in the Pacific.

BLACK MARTINIQUE — RED GUIANA by Nicol Smith is a light-hearted and fascinating account of the author's progress across tropical seas to the two French colonies lying at our very doorstep, still virtually unknown to us. Mr. Smith combines these experiences with a previous trip taken a few years before — and crowns it all with the story of Madame Duez taken from her own diary.

HOW YOUNG YOU LOOK by Peggy Wood is by no means simply a book of theatrical reminiscences; it is the story of a wise and lovely woman whose comments on the world and the people in it are made with wit and wisdom. Her stage career began before 1914, and she was acting in London when Chamberlain went to Munich. Her own life parallels that of many women today who have not been on the stage.

THE BOOK OF BAYS by William Beebe is the story, profusely illustrated, of the tiny bays along the Pacific coast from Mexico to Columbia. Sea elephants and ghost moths, spider monkeys and deep-sea angler fish, sea snakes, eels and baby sailfish—all the denizens of rock pools and mangrove swamps reveal themselves.

Other Non-Fiction.

YOUR WEDDING, HOW TO PLAN AND ENJOY IT, by Woods. ARMY TALK, by Colby. 1001 GARDEN QUESTIONS ANSWERED, by Hottes. DICTIONARY OF EMBROIDERY STITCHES, by Thomas. JAPANESE ENEMY, by Byas. MY NAME IS FRANK, by Laskier. EDUCATIONAL MOTION PICTURES AND LIBRARIES. PRACTICAL POULTRY MANAGEMENT, by Rice and Botsford. HUNGER SIGNS IN CROPS. THE 8 POINTS OF POST-WAR WORLD REORGANIZATION, by Johnson.

Other Fiction.

SHORT DAYS AGO by Renee Brand is a first novel by a young German woman, who, since 1932, has been living in Switzerland. The characters of the novel are a group of refugees and the scene is a No-Man's Land across the German frontier into which are pushed men for whom Europe has no use. They are the cream of mankind—with no provisions, nothing to do but to attempt to keep alive.

VAGABOND PATH by James Gray is the penetrating story of Michael Fontaine from the age of eight to sixty—a talented, cosmopolitan man who is a successful writer, yet who has the feeling of futility of his life. In the end, he is able to give strength and courage to the son of the one woman he truly loved, a courage to make something out of near disaster.

MAN IN PARADISE, by Walker Winslow is the story of a young medical phychiatrist, returned to Honolulu after disillusioning experiences in the War in Spain and drawn into the island problems by a social worker. There he again begins to fight for democracy. There is a love story also, but it is unimportant.

These happy faces belong to the 36 pupils of the third grade class at Bowman street school who signed up more new members than any other class in the Parent - Teacher association's spring membership drive. Standing behind the children are (left to right) Mrs Stanley Terman, P. T. A. room mother of the class, Miss Martha Kindle, teacher, and Mrs John Bacquet, chairman of the campaign. During the six-weeks drive in which 25 Bowman school class rooms participated, the third grade class signed up 47 of the 280 new P. T. A. members. The children were treated to ice-cream, cake and candy.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Martitia, a girl whose equal is seldom found in a book for junior and senior high school readers, furnishes the theme of a new young people's book, "They Loved to Laugh," now on display in the Children's department at the Mansfield Public Library. Another new story describes the summer vacation of four children with a boat.

THEY LOVED TO LAUGH, by Kathryn Worth—When Martitia was left an orphan the doctor who had attended her parents took her to his home Her experiences in this busy Quaker household with the five big teasing boys and their sharp-tongued sister often brought heartache. She was eager to become a Gardner daughter though when she thought of going to live in her rich uncle's home where no one would love her. So Martitia learned to take her place in the Gardner family and she even learned to laugh, too.

OPEN WATER by Hildreth Wriston—The four Halliday children lived on a bay of Lake Champlain where their father was a customs official. More than anything else they wanted a boat and when they were allowed to buy an abandoned one they repaired it themselves. Then they had many picnics and outings along the lake and their adventures even led them to a solution in the tracing of smugglers along the border.

The cucumber probably was first grown in northern India.

The Value of

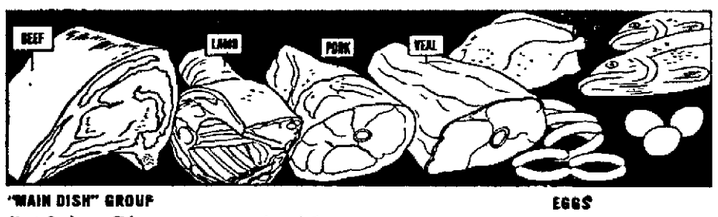
Meat contributes important nutrients to the balanced menu—proteins, B vitamins and minerals—all of them essential to good nutrition.

Eat the Right Foods

BASED ON THE U. S. GOVERNMENT'S GUIDE TO GOOD NUTRITION

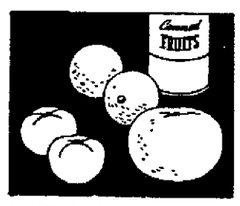


"MAIN DISH" GROUP
Meat, Poultry or Fish—one or more servings daily.

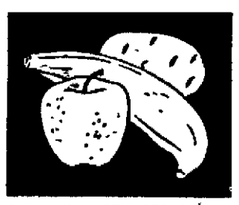
EGGS
At least 3 or 4 a week.

GREEN, LEAFY AND YELLOW VEGETABLE GROUP—One big helping or more a day—some raw, some cooked or canned.

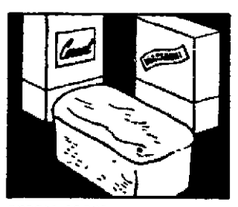
MILK AND CHEESE GROUP
At least a pint of milk a day (more for children)—or cheese or evaporated or dried milk.



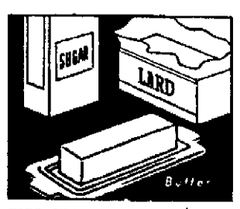
CITRUS GROUP
Oranges or Grapefruit — one of these at least once a day (or tomatoes).



VEGETABLE-FRUIT GROUP
Potatoes, Apples, Bananas—or other vegetables or fruits every day.



CEREAL GROUP
Bread and Cereals—enriched bread, enriched flour, whole grain products, macaroni, spaghetti.



FATS, SWEETS
and seasonings as you like them.

TEAR OUT AND SAVE

When you plan tomorrow's meals, select one from each of the groups in the chart above.

Together, they make up a balanced diet—ample in proteins, minerals, vitamins, carbohydrates and fats.

Meat, important in the balancing of your needs, has these essential nutrients: complete, high quality proteins; B vitamins—thiamine (B_1), riboflavin (G or B_2) and niacin; minerals—iron, copper, phosphorus.

The thriftier cuts of meat bring you the same nutrients as the more familiar ones, plus, of course, that good meat flavor. Your meat-man will help you in their selection.

SET UP NEW PLAN TO ENLIST BLOOD DONORS IN WAR EFFORT

Plans to enlist volunteers from all parts of the county for the blood donor program of Richland county chapter of the Red Cross were furthered yesterday afternoon by the county blood donor committee at Red Cross headquarters.

Local Red Cross chairmen or representatives throughout the county will be urged to work for the program in their own localities while the program in Mansfield will be conducted through contacts with first aid training classes, women's clubs and men's organizations.

Efforts will be made to obtain the signatures of 500 potential donors within the next few weeks in order to meet the requirements of the Cleveland mobile blood donor unit that comes to Mansfield for a three-day visit the end of May.

Booklets explaining the blood donor program that provides blood plasma for the armed forces will be distributed to organizations in the near future. Men and women, both white and colored, between the ages of 20 to 60 years of age, may register as donors

The mobile unit carries its own staff of doctors and nurses and also its own equipment. Bethany House of First Presbyterian church will be used as a receiving station and special committees are being set up to handle the canteen and other details.

John Finefrock, local chairman, has appointed Mrs. Hamilton Walter in charge of the canteen which supplies refreshments to donors after their service.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Covering The Home Front—My son Joe, (11) sport editor of the Western Wind-up, hurried home the other evening all broken out with that "nose-for-news" stuff as he reported:

"Here's a story for your paper. One of those big kids on the high school football squad just hit the tackling dummy so hard he broke it down."

I suspected that the "big kid" was the 230-pound Metcalf and when I checked with Coach Paul Snyder I learned it was indeed the big Metcalf boy.

"But shucks," says Snyder, "he could break the dummy down, just by sitting on it. He's going to make a football player, though. He's beginning to really like the game, and there's no telling what a boy that big can do when he's getting fun out of it."

* * *

I'm glad I'm not a tackling dummy,
With big behemoths on my tummy.

And now to wind up the home front coverage:

While the fighters in the JAC annual boxing tournament were splattering each other with blood and stuff last week, it occurred to me to wonder just what happens to these boxing gloves when the splattering party is over.

And I was told that usually the gloves were given away to somebody or other, and so I told the JAC's: "Okay, just mark me down for a set of those mittens."

* * *

So they give me two pairs of the 8-ounce pummelers, and I take them home expecting wild cheers from my two boys. And what happens?

My son Dave (8) looks at the gloves and says:

"Who are those for? You and momma?"

* * *

Now, I wonder what ever gave him that idea?

Dick Meyer, who followed Paul Snyder as football coach at New London high school, has run into a bit of tough luck.

Three fingers on his right hand and two on his left were severed at the first joint recently when he caught his hands in an electric planer at Brooklyn High, Cleveland, where he is instructor in manual art.

Western and Carpenter Win

Take Track Meets In Impressive Fashion.

Western and Carpenter speedsters copped the first quintuple grade school track meets of the season last evening as the Cowboys compiled an impressive 48 points at John Simpson field, and the Tradesmen chalked up 30 points at Appleseed.

* * *

Western took first in five of the seven events to outstep Newman, in second place with 29¾ points.

* * *

And Carpenter duplicated the five firsts for a long margin over Hedges with 14½ points.

Letteker Almost Gets 300

Strike String Spoiled In 10th Frame Miss.

Mansfield's Al Letteker gave ABC bowling fans a thrill at Columbus last night when, after turning in games of 222 and 221, he started out with a string of strikes in his final singles game that threatened to wind up as a perfect 300.

* * *

But the string was broken when he missed the headpin in the 10th frame, leaving three sticks, and then he blew his spare ball, missing all three pins and winding up with a 240 for 683. This was good for high singles for the Mansfielders.

* * *

Art Thomas, who paced the Orange St. Cafe to high team score of 2761 among Mansfield quintets Wednesday night, continued to fire away at the maples yesterday, chalking up a 563 in the doubles for an 1156 count with Orlie Grable, and coming back with 636 in the singles to make an all-events count of 1809.

Dale Cleckner and Harold LeMunyon chalked up the highest doubles score in the Mansfield contingent with 1211, while Ed Henrich and Carl Phillipon wound up with 1203.

If any team is to dispossess the Chicago Budweisers of their top spot at 3,131 in the American Bowling Congress five-man event standings, tonight appears as promising a time as any for the undertaking.

Thirteen high-ranking squads from Chicago were in Columbus today, headed by Eddie Krems' classic loop crew, the Pabsts. While the Krems outfit perhaps rated the best chance to dethrone the Budweisers, several others could not be left out of consideration if they happened to be hot during their turn on the alleys.

A shake-up among the leaders in the division took place last night, although the three top teams were not disturbed. Waldorf Beer of Cleveland rolled into fourth place on games of 1,027, 1,109 and 995 for 3,091.

* * *

The 1,109 was the highest single game of the tourney, with the players contributing as follows: Ed Koepp 180. Buddy Suchan, sr., 246, Joe Krupa 245, Buddy Suchan, jr., 229, and Joe Kissoff 209.

The Eddie Linsz Recreation team of Cleveland slipped into fifth place behind the Waldorfs with a score of 3,066 compiled on games of 1,001, 1,042 and 1,023.

William Pallage and Frank Brenneman of Akron, O., shot the best doubles game of the day, 1,225, and in their last game, in which they smashed the pins for 518, missed by only nine pins the all-time single-game record held by the doubles team of Carmel Dragotta and Fred Pukal of Allentown, Pa., set in 1939.

Hot singles action came on the final squad of the day and midway through the final games three Ohioans had a chance to take the lead away from Nelson Burton's 746 of last Sunday.

Phil Young of Akron, who won the roll-off with Chick Aston for the doubles title back in 1926, emerged high for the day on 718. He had games of 253-252-213 and a miss of the No. 6 pin on top of a triple really hurt him in the seventh.

* * *

Earl Lewis, 26-year-old lad from Newark, O., was right on his heels with 202-218 and he was riding high down the home stretch when a 4-10 split in the final frame brought him up short on a 233 and a 713 for tenth place.

TWILIGHT TRACK MEET SCHEDULED TONIGHT

Harry Mehock's face brightened today with the blazing sun that broke up early morning rain and promised a dry track for this evening's first twilight track meet at Stadium Field where the undefeated Mansfield High Tygers tangle with the Sandusky Blue Streaks.

The meet will start promptly at 7 o'clock, and probably will be over within an hour, the Tyger track tutor promised.

Reds Aid In Cub Opener

Salvage Finale in Series With Pirates.

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Cincinnati Reds came here today on their first road trip in hopes of getting above the .500 mark in the National league pennant race before it's too late.

Johnny Vander Meer, still pounding the comeback trail, is the Cincinnati pitcher, against General Bill Lee for the Chicago Cubs.

The Reds salvaged the finale of the three-game Pirate series at home by drawing heavily on their luck account in the 12th inning yesterday. The score was 8 to 7. After the Pirates had hammered themselves to a lead in a see-saw battle, Gee Walker made it 7-all in the ninth with a long one over the left field wall.

* * *

In the 12th, Frank McCormick singled and two successors were passed to fill the bases.

Then Eddie Joost came up and drew a walk from Aldon Wilkie and Max Butcher and McCormick came in with the eighth and winning run.

Aside from the victory itself, certain other favorable aspects of the Reds' 1942 chances developed, mainly the hitting of Ival Goodman. Goody, a sick man all last year, rattled out four safeties, one a double, in six tries.

Young Bert Haas, brought up from Columbus on the strength of his reputation as a slugger, pitched in two doubles.

In all the Reds got the incredible total of 14 hits.

Pastor, Bivins Battle Tonight

Bob Rates Favorite at 2-1 Betting Odds.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Tricky Bob Pastor, who hopes for another try at Joe Louis this summer, and Sluggin' Jimmy Bivins, leading light heavyweight challenger, will be gunning for a knockout in their 10-round scrap tonight.

Pastor is expected to step into the ring with about a five-pound weight advantage over his Cleveland negro opponent, whose best ring weight has been a shade under 175 pounds. Winner of 11 straight contests, Bob is the favorite at 2 to 1. But Bivins packs enough kayo T. N. T in his fists to upset many a wager.

Collegiate Robert's record looks the better on the evidence of his last showing here, when he deposited Lem Franklin and his heavyweight title hopes on the canvas in eight rounds.

Franklin put a knockout punch on Bivins but except for that, the hard-hitting Bivins record looks good, too.

If Pastor should lose, he would be eliminated from his No. 1 position for a crack at Joe Louis this summer. Bob gets a major share of an estimated $50,000 receipts, however.

The ten-round semi-final pairs Anton Christoforidis, former light-heavy champ, and Jimmy Reeves, Cleveland's former international A. A. U. middleweight champion.

ROUGH SPOTS FOUND IN GRID MACHINE

Coach Paul Snyder found too many rough spots in the work of his Mansfield High gridiron machine as it tied Marion 6-6 in a practice scrimmage at Marion yesterday, and promised a smoothing out process for the immediate drills of the Tygers.

Again no regulation was played, the teams taking turns in advancing the ball from the 35-yard lines. Dick Butterfield scored Mansfield's touchdown on an off-tackle shoot, while Marion tallied on a wide end sweep.

Printers Win B-Loop Title

Have One-Game Margin As 3 Tie For Second.

Mansfield Printing won the championship of the Commercial "B" bowling league by a single game margin last night at Colony alleys as the loop wound up its season with three teams tied for second place.

The Printers barely held on to their title edge, dropping a 1-2 decision to M. & M. Service Station.

Of the three teams tied for second, Ingram-Martin lost its title chance on a 1-2 defeat, and Kent Rummel missed out on a 2-1 win. They left the door open for Jones Chris-Crafts to come charging in on the deadlock with a shutout over Ringside.

* * *

Romig rolled high total last night of 610, and Altman had an even 600. Huck took high game honors with 253, edging Andy Stash who knocked over a 251.

The B-leaguers' banquet next Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at Lee's Tavern.

Apache Shows Derby Speed

Takes Jamaica Race In Test Over Long Route.

By CHARLES MOREY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—To the citizens of a happier Paris an Apache was a swaggering, treacherous thief. To the pioneers of America's southwest, Apache was a stubborn, courageous Indian. But to the 1942 group of horseplayers Apache is a sleek racy colt with whom old Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons will try to score a fourth victory in the Kentucky Derby.

The stooped old trainer with the ruddy face saddled Gallant Fox for a bluegrass victory in 1930, sent Omaha booming home for the big pot in 1935 and then grabbed the roses a third time with Johnstown in 1939. Apache probably doesn't rate with those—for they were all champions. But he may prove to be plenty good enough.

The handsome black son of Alcazar, a sire who has been drafted by the army remount service, popped into the derby picture last week when he splashed through the mud of Jamaica to a breezing triumph in the $5,000 experimental handicap.

With Jimmy Stout up, he was troubled in the early stages and pinned in close quarters, but he drew away to win by a length.

The six-furlong victory was a relief to old Mr. Fitz. As a two-year-old, Apache was a ball of fire. He won only three of a dozen starts but his last was easily his best. He beat off the heavily favored Devil Diver to take the $10,000 Remsen handicap. Previously, he had fallen victim five times in as many starts to Requested.

Yesterday at Jamaica, Apache proved that a longer route held no terrors for him. Racing in a three horse field he followed the pace of the speedy First Fiddle for six furlongs and then took the lead to pull away and win by two lengths He ran the mile and one-sixteenth in the good time of 1:44 2-5.

These are two strong points that can be made for the Belair colt. First, he's consistent and that's a virtue not to be scorned. Second, he ran better with each start last year and the Belair horses usually improve from two to three. None of Fitz's other derby winners amounted to anything as juveniles.

NOMINATES STABLE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— J. G. Elder of Chickamaugua, Ga., a newcomer to racing, has two thorpughbreds in his stable—Last Buble and American Lake. He has nominated both for the Kentucky Derby.

Baseball Stages Fantasia

Red Sox Swamp Macks In Wild Scoring Bee.

By JUDSON BAILEY

FANTASTIC things happen during the first few days of every baseball season when the major league clubs are trying to shake out their spring kinks.

Take a day like yesterday.

The Boston Red Sox scored 19 runs for what may stand all season as the largest score by one club. The victims were the Philadelphia Athletics, who scored four runs just for exercise, certainly not for competition.

The Red Sockers, who had ripped out 24 hits in their first two games with the A's made 21 yesterday and tallied in every turn at bat except the second inning. Ted Williams hit his second home run of the season and Dominic DiMaggio posted one.

It would be easy to compose an essay on the bright future promised Boston by this slugging except for the fact that it was accomplished against nondescript pitching. Old Connie Mack started a young fellow named Fred Caligiuri, who pitched in a Class "C" league last year. After the Red Sox scored five runs in four innings, Mr. Mack sent out Lester McCrabb and when he couldn't stop the raid, the old gentleman simply refused to waste any more pitchers trying to keep down the score.

There were other wild games—in fact five of the day's eight encounters produced from 22 to 28 hits—but some extraordinary recognition ought to go to the 12-inning struggle which Cincinnati captured 8-7 from Pittsburgh to knock the Pirates out of their share of the National league lead.

The Brooklyn Dodgers won the rubber game of their series with the New York Giants Two rookies, Ed Head of the Dodgers and Lefty Dave Koslo of the Giants were locked in a 2-2 tie coming into the ninth — chiefly because Manager Mel Ott had offset Koslo's wildness by personally knocking in both New York runs, first with a single and later with a home run. Koslo loaded the bases by giving two singles and a walk, then forced across another run with a pass. Ace Adams relieved him and promptly yielded another walk and Brooklyn triumphed 4-2.

The New York Yankees had a strange game — for the world champs Manager Joe McCarthy gave the starting signal to Lefty Gomez. Washington wheedled one run in every one of the first five innings and the Yankee batters had to keep busy themselves to stay abreast the Senators. Marvin Breuer relieved Gomez and muzzled the Senators and in the ninth the Yanks set off their cannon-crackers—a single, two doubles and a triple—to win 8-5.

Rookie Vernon Stephens hit his second home run in two days as the St. Louis Browns humiliated the Chicago White Sox again 13-3. Rudy York hit his second round tripper in two days and Rookie Don Ross connected for one in the eighth inning to provide the margin of a 5-4 victory for Detroit over Cleveland.

The St. Louis Cardinals won a track meet from the Chicago Cubs 11-6. Each team made 14 hits and three errors.

And who do you suppose had the tightest, best played contest of the day? The Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phils. It went ten innings and Boston triumphed 2-1 with old Ernie Lombardi driving in both the Braves' runs with singles.

Women Owners Win Six Derbies

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— Women owners have sent six Kentucky Derby winners to the post during the 67-year history of the Churchill Downs classic.

The first was Mrs. C. E. Durnell, whose Elwood beat four competitors to the finish line in 1904. Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, whose Gallahadion topped a field of eight starters in 1940, was the last woman to furnish a winner.

Other women owners of Derby winners included:

1924, Mrs. R. M. Hoots, with Black Gold.

1928, Mrs. J. D. Hertz, with Reigh Count.

1931, Mrs. Payne Whitney, with Twenty Grand.

1934, Mrs. Dodge Sloane, with

Indians Come Home For Opener With White Sox.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Opening the season for local baseball fans today, the Cleveland Indians came home with a .333 standing to face venerable Ted Lyons and the Chicago White Sox.

Boy-Manager Lou Boudreau called on veteran hurler Mel Harder, who underwent an elbow operation last fall and then won a contract with the tribe during spring training.

Among the pre-game ceremonies scheduled in the stadium today were the induction of 50 men into the navy a parade to the centerfield flag pole with a color guard of four sailors, four soldiers and four marines; and a sizzling pitch by Mayor Frank J. Lausche at 4 p. m.

* * *

Detroit won yesterday's tussle on Don Ross' homer in the eighth, the third circuit clout of a see-saw scoring day.

* * *

Heath opened the seventh with a home run which tied the game at 4-all. He picked out the first pitch and drove it to the wooden facing on the third tier in right field, very near the spot Ted Williams chose last year when he broke up the All-Star game.

Ross, second man up in the eighth, lined one to the left field seats, and gave Detroit the game, 5 to 4.

Rudy York also homered for the Tigers in the fifth.

Hosts Prove Too Generous

Victory Entertainment Offered AA Visitors.

(By Associated Press)

The home teams were especially good hosts as the American Association began its 41st baseball season yesterday, so good that the only one with anything left to show for opening day was Milwaukee, which drew the top crowd of the day, but didn't get to play out its game.

* * *

The other clubs got a break from the weather, but saw success end there. It was the visiting team in each instance that won.

Indianapolis lost, 13 to 2, to the champion Columbus Red Birds, who are being picked to repeat this year. Kansas City made the most of six hits, but finally yielded to Minneapolis, 3 to 2. Louisville failed to hit in the pinches and lost to Toledo, 4 to 1.

At Milwaukee, weather interfered after one inning of play, but George Trautman, Association president, said the attendance figure—15,599—would count as Milwaukee's official opening day crowd. Indianapolis drew 12,242, Kansas City 11,218 and Louisville 9,105. Trautman said the league total, which bettered 47,000, was the best in a decade.

Golf Tournament Marches Along

PINEHURST, N. C. — (INS) — With the original field of 32 whittled down to eight contestants followng two days of match play, the annual North and South Amateur Golf tournament today entered the quarter-final stage of the meet

Derby Winners Sire Champions

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Three Kentucky Derby winners have sired sons who later wore the roses of victory in the Churchill Downs classic.

The first of these was Halma, 1895, winner, who sired Alan-a-Dale, the winner in 1902.

In 1926, Bubbling Over triumphed and six years later his son, Burgoo King, carried on the family tradition. Omaha, the 1935 victor, carried on the precedent set by his father, Gallant Fox, in 1930.

The oldest sire of a Derby winner was Falsetto, who had reached the ripe old age of 30 when his son, Sir Huron, won top honors in the 1906 classic.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—After every inning, Ted Williams visits the scoreboard at Fenway park to ask the keeper if anybody around the circuit hit any homers. . . . Looks as if Georgia might be retrenching its athletic program on the quiet. The bulldogs have cancelled all dual track meets (incidentally leaving Auburn without a home meet for the first time in 26 years) and plan to enter only two. men in the Southeastern conference meet. . . . The Turf Committee of America, announcing that a goal of $2,000,000 has been set for racing's contribution to war relief, points out that this is to be "apart from such gifts as the public may choose to make, channeling through race organizations." . . . Presumably, then, that rules out the Narragansett idea of running an extra race and contributing what the public donates that way.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Bill Shirley, Little Rock, Arkansas Democrat: "Prospects at Memphis are so gloomy that Doc Prothro thinks he's still piloting the Phillies. The ex-doctor of dentistry will have to 'fill' plenty of weak spots and 'pull' a few surprises if he expects his Chicks to crash the southern loop's first division."

ODDS—AND SOME ENDS

Robert Trent (not Bobby) Jones, the noted golf course architect, has turned his talents to designing airports. . . . He's doing away with hazards instead of creating them . . . Although the National A.A.U. boxing championships at Boston had the smallest entry list in years, the first night's gate was $4,938 25, a few hundred dollars more than in 1941. . . . Al Sabath reports that Alsab has put on 80 pounds "in the right places" since he ran in Florida and acts more like the eager-to-run colt of last summer.

All-Out Effort Set for Baseball

NEW YORK —(AP)— A united, all-out war effort was baseball's goal today as Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, the shaggy, white-haired czar of the national pastime, gathered the leaders of the sport in a hotel room here to confer with army and navy officers on a program that would extend from the major leagues down to the smallest minors.

"We want to get the minors in on this, we want, to work out something everybody can help on," Landis said yesterday as he disclosed that he had asked William G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, and Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International league and a member of the executive committee of the National association, to attend today's session.

Presidents Ford Frick of the National league and William Harridge of the American league have been conferring for two days with the 75-year-old commissioner, and yesterday this triumvirate was joined by two representatives of the army and navy.

* * *

But after an hour's discussion Landis recessed the session in order to bring Shaughnessy and Bramham into the conference and place the whole program on a plane of all baseball instead of just a major league effort.

Up till now individual clubs and the various leagues have formulated their own war programs.

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need

Are We Down-Hearted?
NO!

Why should we be? Here is the busiest service station in town with service-masters to look after your car or truck. Our parts store and body shop are humming, too.

Also, here are four salesmen and they are not standing around looking sorry for themselves either.

Yes—the car business, like the old gray mare, "ain't what she used to be," but we are still selling used cars and trucks (none finer) and have plenty of new cars and trucks, to. It's easier to buy a new car than you think. Try us and see.

STOCK MARKET LEADERS FALL IN DAY'S LIST

Retail Trade For Week Has Five Per Cent Margin Over Year Ago.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Leaders generally followed a downward drift in today's stock market dealings.

Off fractionally were Chrysler, American Telephone, General Electric, National Distillers, Sears Roebuck and Caterpillar Tractor. Unchanged to a trifle higher were General Motors, U. S. Steel and Southern Pacific.

Scanned in Wall Street boardrooms was the weekly survey of Dun & Bradstreet which reported the past week's retail trade averaged about 5 per cent larger than in the corresponding time last year. Regional gains were estimated as follows: New England, up 1 to 6 per cent; midwest 3 to 9 per cent; Southwest even to 3 per cent; Northwest 2 to 5 per cent; South unchanged to 4 per cent; Pacific coast 1 to 6 per cent, East slightly under to 3 per cent ahead.

The review said that "investment buying persisted in all-season and staple soft goods items but was increasingly limited in hard goods by depleted stocks and restrictions."

BICYCLE TRAVEL BRINGS PROBLEM

Pedestrians Complain About Sidewalk Riders; Police Have Trouble, Too.

schools and while playing and adults, anxious to conserve tires, have adopted them for short trips about town.

Chief Bell said that the persons complaining claimed that bike-riders were riding too fast and forced them off the sidewalks. He warned riders to be more cautious.

New bicycle owners were also warned that they must get registration tags before mid-summer when police will make their annual check on all bikes in the city.

Although a city ordinance calls for the registration of a bicycle within 48 hours of its purchase or sale, police said that the ordinance was not being enforced until after all persons have been given an opportunity to obtain tags.

The tags will be issued shortly after the closing of schools for the summer vacation, according to Chief Bell. Bike-owners pay 25 cents for a tag which is good for the life of the bicycle.

Another bicycle problem facing the police is the increased number of bike thefts. Five persons reported bicycles stolen within the past two days.

Lynn Davis, 91 East Fourth street, told police last night that two bicycles had been stolen from the porch of his home early yesterday. Davis said one of the bikes was worth $10 and the other $15.

Russell Stevens, 34 West Temple court, reported that a $25 bike had been taken from his home yesterday. Walter Griffith, 380 West Fourth street, who reported his bike stolen Wednesday, told police that he found it abandoned at the rear of the Mansfield Metal Vault company on Longview avenue yesterday.

All persons must swear to the amount of sugar they have on hand when they register and obtain ration books on May 4, 5, 6, and 7. Wholesalers, retailers, industrial and institutional users will register on April 28 and 29.

Individuals will register at elementary schools, while dealers and industrial and institutional users will register at Senior high schools.

James Bailey, chairman of the Mansfield rationing board and Richland county rationing co-ordinator, will confer next week with W. L. All registration cards, when filled out, will be turned over to the rationing boards.

Sugar sales will be banned from April 27 and May 4 to take inventory of stocks and complete arrangements for the registration.

The OPA said the ration cards will be simple in form and easily carried. It was emphasized that even persons who do not intend to buy sugar should register for a book, because it may later be necessary to add other consumer products to the coupon-rationing system.
